

A tale of two protests

I'll just post this:

The following report is actually a very important one I did a couple years ago when I was out in Washington DC. If you want to see how the CIA operates, in contrast with how genuine people operate, the following report is pure gold, it's one of my favorites.

A genuine anti-war protest

And a pro war psy op

Jim Stone, Freelance Journalist, Feb 4 2012

Since I am stuck out in DC until I manage to get out of this country, I paid a visit to a protest against war on Iran in front of the white house, and got more than I expected. The Iran rally was genuine but small, I'd say about 100 people showed up.

I was going to just post an article about that rally, and was a few blocks away after it ended when something gave me the urge to turn around and go back. I was glad I did.

On the heels of the anti war protest, a pro war protest against Syria had started. It did not seem realistic. I immediately suspected a psy op was underway. There was something not right about it. They were much louder than the anti war protest, though they were much smaller, about a third of the size. AND, then it hit me. I realized what was wrong. It was the melodies they were using to sing their pro-war rants against Syria. THE MELODIES WERE THE ONES SANG ON THE SABBATH AT THE JEWISH SYNAGOGUES. And the guy with the bullhorn? He was leading chants with the same melodies used for marching cadences in the US military! So it was a tradeoff between American military cadence melodies and what was sung at the synagogues. I knew for certain it had to be a psy op, Islamic countries do not chant melodies at protests for one, and Muslims don't know what the Jews sing in their synagogues. It was creepy. So I took a few photos.

At the pro war rally, where people were pretending to be Syrians begging Obama to blow the "Syrian regime" away, the people did not look genuine at all, but managed to be very loud.

The media was also there, right in the thick of the action, to document the pro war rally

The signage at the pro war rally was expensive finely produced stuff. Not the rag tag appearance of the Anti War crowd

It was sickening to see the contrast between the well funded pro-war group and the run on a shoestring anti-war group. After taking one last photo of the pro war rally, I left.

As I walked away, I thought about the differences between the two groups, and how the media presented them. The anti war rally was documented with cell phones and people like me, walking around with semi-pro SLR's, while the phony rally got the big television cameras and enormous lenses. I was disgusted, but then again who would not be with the obvious fakery in the mainstream press?

But there was more than that - The pro war crowd looked like a bunch of disingenuous actors, while the people who were against war were obviously genuine. They were down to earth obviously good in the heart people.

Where do you think the MSM will take each of these stories?

Gotta switch cyber cafe's. time is up.

MAILS HEAVILY CENSORED AGAIN. MANY ANGRY READERS WONDERING WHY I NEVER RESPOND PROVE IT. DO NOT DONATE UNTIL CONFIRMATION IS LOGGED ON THIS FRONT PAGE OR "THEY" WILL PROBABLY STEAL IT.

Do not donate to gamuzziusa@gmail.com anymore, Claudia's family got attacked and the NSA is currently using censorship of communications to destroy their business, which employs over 150 people. Gamuzziusa@gmail.com will be deleted. james@jimstonefreelance.com will be assigned as the primary paypal donate address. Ads had to be pulled off this site except for html encoded ones I made myself because the outsourced ads were being used to load viruses and spyware into people's computers rather than ads. I am currently trying to root out ALL outsourced ads, which did not pay jack despite producing over five million impressions.

May 7 2014

I cannot answer e-mails after what happened this morning. Martin sent $50 via Paypal, thanks!

Marco sent $10 euros via Paypal, thanks!

THEY GOT THE DOG

At 7pm, when it was still light outside, someone came by the house and ripped the dog through the slats in the fence. Toti was a good dog, and was an excellent barking guard dog but not one anyone would really be afraid of. The neighbors cannot confirm who took him, all they know is he got ripped through the fence. Obviously if there was a hit out on anyone, the dog would have to go. Toti was brought inside at night and would have definitely alerted us of any danger.

I have a little news for the idiot who got him, I have not returned home and had no plans of returning home tonight, you may have nailed the dog but you WILL NOT get me.

A little history on the dog

Many readers may remember that last September I relocated for safety reasons. Claudia and I picked a small house on the edge of the city that had a fenced in front yard so we could have a dog to warn us if anyone strange got close. I wanted a small one, because a big one is not really any more useful, if any dog ever bites anyone it's pretty much a dead dog, so I just wanted a little noise maker that would not eat a whole lot because money was tight.

Claudia and I both thought it would be the nicest to just find a stray or lost dog and give it a home. Within three weeks of moving in, we saw "toti", obviously lost, dirty and not in good condition in the parking lot of a small store. After a pack of hot dogs, we were able to take him home. He cleaned up nicely and at first I thought he was old, because he could not move fast. But I then realized he had been hit by a car and was sore everywhere, and after a month or so he was doing great. Claudia named him "toto" and I thought it was tacky. No one names their dog "toto", though this one really did look pretty much like the one in the wizard of oz. And after "toto" proved himself as a great dog, Claudia started calling him toti.

He did the job I wanted him for perfectly. He was a decent well mannered and reasonably clean dog that was easy to bathe and was obviously pampered by the previous owner. We could not figure out why anyone would leave him, but then concluded he probably got lost after he saw some horses or something similar because when he saw them he would take off like a rocket to chase them, and he probably got lost after doing so.

At any rate, Toti's final job I guess was to send the message that I really am in danger.

American intelligence paid a visit today

This morning, a man I have never seen before pulled up to my house on a black Honda CG150 motorcycle and started speaking English without me ever saying a thing. Mexicans don't just automatically know you speak English, they always just speak Spanish. He handed me a business card for meat products and drove off. When I first saw him, he drove up the street past the house, returned directly to MY HOUSE AND MY HOUSE ALONE, started speaking English before I ever said a thing, handed me the business card which was very poorly done, and drove off. THAT does not happen In Mexico.

If he was out advertising his meat products, he would have put a card at every house, not just singled out mine. I have most likely met my assassin. He most likely had a hidden camera providing input to a control center and had to see me first so he knew exactly what the target was. The business card was an alibi. He will most likely set up in the area and wait. He had a filthy dark deep criminal look that I would expect from a paid killer. Obviously I am never returning home again.

Motorcycles are used by assassins because they are super difficult to pursue. He obviously drove past my house and then turned around because he came up the one way street in the wrong direction and had to turn around to see the address which is only visible from the correct direction. FOR THE RECORD, I will update this site at least once per day until I am dead. My health is perfect. Time online is now limited to 20 minutes. I have 10 minutes,

Hmm

Offers of safe locations

Many people have offered sanctuary, and I am highly appreciative of this. But I have a different plan, you see - For as long as I am not in a new country working to stop world war 3, I will suffer whatever hardships it takes to keep this site running and updated. I am not going to slip away to a retreat somewhere and live quietly, I know what is up in this world and along with knowledge comes responsibility.

I am not going to go somewhere to hide and slack off, I am in this game until I am either dead or win.

HOW ABOUT THIS FOR AN EXAMPLE:

Rachel Corrie was an awesome woman, who died standing up for a righteous cause. If you look at the video linked below, the first half starts out with Rachel speaking as a young girl about how she is going to work to save the world. Many children give such speeches when they are young, and virtually none live up to it. The second half of the video proves Rachel meant what she said as a child, and ended up dying for a righteous cause.

Watch this video here

When I was Rachel's age in the first half of the video, I myself could see that the world was changing in ways I did not agree with. I was very socially aware at a very young age, and at that age I made the decision that I was not going to allow myself to be corrupted by the societal degradation that was happening all around me. And I did a pretty good job of living up to it. And I am NOT going to bow down to evil, or let it prevail just because things have gotten difficult.

This site could not survive?

I have received several mails now saying this web site could not survive what it has posted if it was all true. Let me tell you how it survived the Fukushima report and became impossible to shut down without raising too much attention.

This site started out as a very popular Photography web site and I allowed people to use my photos for their background images and site content. Over 8,000 web sites linked in and used my photos. SO, all I did was take the most popular photos which were going out countless thousands of times a day, and replaced them with a message about Fukushima sabotage, and to get the real truth on Jimstonefreelance.com. So a gajillion different people who hit all those other web sites, rather than see a black widow or duck or whatever, saw the message about Fukushima embedded in whatever photo was supposed to be on whatever web site they hit.

This created a tidal wave of traffic on the topic and shot the truth out there way too fast for the NSA or anyone else to shut down, it was a classic ambush. Once people hit my site, there were instructions stating that this web site was likely to be shut down over posting such a hugely important report, and for people to archive, repost, and mirror the report. Overnight it went from nothing to all over the web in countless places. THAT is how I did it. It wrecked this site as a photography site, and I kept this site focused on news ever since.

Gotta change locations again

May 6th 2014

I am having troubles

A portion of this has been removed at Claudia's request.

SO, I went to the embassy of a foreign country because my life was wrecked anyway and I am still afraid in Mexico. And a HUGE disaster happened, I know they probably do not think so, but I can prove it with ease.

I handed their ambassador to Mexico the fukushima report along with a document that should have been classified SCI level 5. That's the top of the top of the top of the top, there is nothing beyond that.

They acted in the most unprofessional manner imaginable, and the two main culprits who I will call the "ambassador" and "cutie girl" ate the cake of stupidity far beyond what would make them morbidly obese.

A lot happened, but I will tell you the key error they made, even though I was not there to see it. With a document clearly labeled HAND DELIVER THROUGH DIPLOMATIC CHANNELS ONLY, they put it on a digital copier and made copies. WHY IS THAT BAD? Because digital copiers all have wifi or network connections, which the NSA would have a perfect hack on. They screwed my life into a black hole.

I am in panic mode now, trying to balance my life between losing Claudia and having every last bit of my personal security compromised. I'd bet CUTIE GIRL was SO STUPID she e-mailed copies of that document around.

Claudia, who is a school teacher, had ONE THING TO SAY - "They acted like children, they will wreck their country because you can't have joe blow do important work. And there was a reference to "a school yard level mentality".

I assured her that it was only their Mexican embassy that behaved that stupidly, I have dealt with them in both America and Canada and never saw anything that approached their Mexican embassie's level of incompetence when it came to dealing with an unusual situation. I have not given all the details here, only what it takes to make a point. It's worse than I said here by a long shot.

My life is probably over, even as bad as it was. I have to switch modes of living now, they have no doubt wrecked my life and behaved in such an abberant way that it made me wonder if they hated their country.

I am limiting my online time with this web site to an hour a day, and will never visit the same cyber cafe twice. If American "intelligence" wanted me dead or irrelevant before, now they will no doubt be in drone strike mode, there is a difference between simply bumping a bee hive and trying to eat one while naked. My days are numbered.

I have a half hour left, so I am going to post a piece of work by Henry Makow because a half hour is not enough for me to do my own work. I was amazed by this particular piece and got his full permission long ago to publish this in full.

Porn Shackles Society More than Patriot Act

Increasingly, pornography is changing societal norms.
Soon, we could be living in a porn movie.

"We aspire to corrupt in order to rule."* Giuseppe Mazzini (1805-1872)
Freemason leader.

by Henry Makow Ph.D.(the link is good, but his site is not working in Mexico right now)

Mankind has been colonized by a satanic cult, the Illuminati, Cabalist Jewish bankers & Freemasons who used their fraudulent monopoly over government credit (currency) to buy the world and hold it in debt servitude.

So effective is their control over culture that humanity is only now realizing it is their hostage in an emerging imperialist police state that spans the globe.

We are also recognizing that "sexual liberation" and pornography are political weapons designed to degrade and control.

The Illuminati know that real men supported by loyal wives will fight to defend their families and ensure their children have a wholesome future.

Better to turn these men and women into sex addicts who betray their families for a cheap thrill.

Porn is literally a weapon of war. In occupied Poland, the Nazis corrupted Polish society:

"The authorities turned a blind eye to the illicit distillation of alcohol. In Warsaw, gambling halls were opened which only Poles were allowed to attend. Prostitution was tolerated. The printing and distribution of pornography was encouraged." ("Poland Under Nazi Occupation" 1961, p.218.) Casinos. Prostitution. Porn. Sound familiar?

Porn is a favorite weapon of colonizers. When Israel took over Palestinian TV stations in the West Bank, they broadcast porn. After the US invaded Iraq, porn flourished.

For most people, sex has become an addiction. Porn is the crack. In the 19th Century the British fought the Opium Wars because the Chinese wouldn't take their "medicine."

For the past 50-100 years this weapon has been used against us and increasingly porn is setting societal norms.

ILLUMINATI JEWISH HOLLYWOOD

Just as "social change" is really "social engineering," Hollywood entertainment is really behavior modification.

"Risky Business" (1983) is described as "a teen comedy-drama" when it was designed to hook a new generation on pornography. Tom Cruise plays Joel "Goodson" an innocent whose teenage fantasy comes true when a comely young prostitute (Rebecca de Mornay) moves in while his parents are away on vacation.

The film contains many steamy sex scenes and implicitly condones prostitution and sex for its own sake. No coincidence, it was made by David Geffin, a homosexual Jew and written and directed by Paul Brickman, a Jew whose "sexual preference" is unknown.

This film about corrupting innocence is bookmarked by the American Pie series (1999-2012) more Illuminati Jewish "teen comedy" which begins with four teenagers who vow to lose their virginity before graduation.

Again, the film contains enough sex and nudity to hook every young male viewer on pornography.

pieguilt.jpegThe "American pie" refers to a scene in which the hero is caught masturbating into an apple pie, a reflection of what Illuminati Jews and Masons think of American values and what they are doing to America. ("Motherhood & apple pie" used to signify wholesome before it was defiled by Illuminati Jews.)

In the sequel, American Wedding, (2003), the future bride performs fellatio on the groom under a table in a crowded restaurant.

At the wedding reception, the groom's unruly friend has sex with the groom's grandmother in a darkened closet thinking she is the bride's slutish sister.

Granny is so pleased she blesses her grandson's marriage to a "shiksa." In the final scene, another friend performs cunnilingus on the unruly friend's mother in a bubble bath.

This crude psychological assault on our morals and decency is part of the Illuminati's hate-filled (Talmudic) strategy to destroy the institution of the family.

In this context Fast Times at Ridgemont High (1982) and Pretty Women (1990) are significant for their nudity and for legitimizing abortion and prostitution.

All these movies played a major role in removing moral constraints and allowing obscenity, porn and Satanism to flourish in the mass media today.

MAINSTREAMING PORN

According to one 2005 estimate, 12% of all websites and 25% of all downloads are porn. Almost 30% of consumers are women.

People respond to porn as if they were actually engaged in it. This cannot but affect behavior. Increasingly, pornography is dictating societal norms.

Here, the TSA sought to grope the genitals of a 79-year-old woman. Can you see what's happening? This is not about security. This is about making us all porn stars. Where are the defenders of "human rights" now? This old woman is Jewish!

Recently Illuminati widget Myley Cyrus was photographed panty-less in public. Coincidence? Flashing vagina could become as acceptable as cleavage. With so many young women displaying their pruned privates in porn, it is inevitable.

In this context, the "Vagina Monologues" which sought to "culturally rehabilitate" the female genitals can be seen as pioneering.

(See my "Porn Play Degrades Women")

There is a "Breastaurant" trend where waitresses provide generous portions of breast along with ribs and mash potatoes.

Look on the street. Young girls are responding to media cues by wearing form fitting leggings which highlight bum and camel toe.

Young women used to be respected for becoming wives and mothers. Now they seek validation as porn stars and unpaid prostitutes. Ultimately, the Illuminati plan is for women to become a public utility like running water. One satisfies thirst, the other lust.

The other effect of porn is arrested development. Sex is important in the courtship and procreation stages of life. However people in healthy marriages pursue new interests after they have children and age.

MICHAEL JONES

Along with Kevin MacDonald, E. Michael Jones, the editor of Culture Wars, is our leading cultural thinker. In his book Libido Dominandi, Jones details how the Illuminati used "sexual liberation" for political control since the French Revolution. I invite you to listen to his interview.

Jones characterizes the rise of porn as a battle between Catholics and "Jewish pornographers" which the Illuminati Jews have won.

In his most recent book, The Jewish Revolutionary Spirit, he characterizes modern history as the hate-filled subversion of civilization by Cabalist Jewish bankers and their Freemason proxies who have usurped Gentile leadership. This interview can be found here. This process of subversion is now almost finished. Everybody, especially many Jews, are duped into advancing collective suicide, i.e. the "New World Order." Career success depends on it.

The Cabalist bankers who intermarry with non-Jewish Satanists ensure that other Jews will take the blame. They fund anti-Semites and create anti-Semitism in order to conflate this secret Cabalist agenda with all Jews.

Jones quotes Leon Trotsky: "Pogroms in which the rank-and-file of the Jewish nation suffer serve the useful purpose of keeping them in absolute dependence on their leaders."

Jones: "This is another way of saying the Trotskys promote revolution and the Braunsteins suffer for it."

CONCLUSION

Humanity has been colonized by this satanic cult and is satanically possessed.

Possession partly takes the form of sex addiction and promiscuity. Anonymous sex, separated from love, courtship and marriage is extremely degrading for human beings, especially women. Pedophilia, incest and even bestiality are next.

"Liberation" is really enslavement. That's how Satanism works. Everything is the opposite of what is claimed. Evil is portrayed as good and vice-versa.

Jones quotes Saint Augustine: "A man has as many masters as he has vices."

How much easier for the Illuminati to let the human race enslave itself while they create a police state.

Related Makow- Hit Movie Exposes Hollywood's Luciferian Game Makow - How Kulture is Contrived

David Richards -- Porn: Watched Bruised Drugged Prostitutes

Info on Combating Porn & Sex Addiction

Porn-addled 13-yr old Abuses 5 Year Old Sister

<http://www.lifesitenews.com/news/generation-xxx-13-year-old-boy-sexually-abuses-5-year-old-sister-thanks-to>

May 5th

Benghazi

In light of the fact that "they" won't let the Benghazi psy op die, I would like to once again repeat, Ambassador Stevens NEVER GOT A FUNERAL. Despite the fact that history has now been rigged on the web via back dating of web sites and updates after this web site pointed out that simple fact There are PLENTY of others who noticed back then, such as THIS SITE and to this day, the department of state web site which lists all embassies NEVER had anything listed for Benghazi EVER in the history of American embassies and consulates, and has not put one in Benghazi to cover for even this psy op to this day.

As a conciliatory move, for those who asked, a small "memorial" was put up where he was supposedly buried EIGHT MONTHS AFTER BENGHAZI. Cute. Just to satisfy enquiring minds I guess.

Benghazi was a psy op all the way, and I am absolutely sick of hearing this lie repeated over and over and over and over and over and over again. In Benghazi there was a CIA base, widely reported even via outlets such as Fox News, a base located in a rented house secured to residential standards which was completely empty when it was attacked. I am not backing down on this no matter what garbage gets hatched and no matter how I get attacked over it, Benghazi was B.S. FINAL ANSWER. Look up crisis actors for an explanation for any convincing "photos" of what went on there.

The big question? FOR WHAT REASON is this idiotic lie of a story being pushed SO HARD?

This mail:

"James,

Remember when I said it might be Mers rather than Ebola they scare us about? Well check the link I provide and the first case of US Mers arrives. Now the elite would have to be nuts to release ebola around the world and it defeats the object of your nanobot does it not? A mers virus would be better and even easier to fake compared to ebola. Also I have wondered why they called this Mers rather than Sars. Is this because it is a biological weapon designed this time to attack arabs rather than sars with the orientals? I do not think there has been a white raced being infected with this and suffering but I could be wrong but unlikely. We both know who would like a race-specific bioweapon against arabs!"

Caused me to write the following:

Recent mania regarding pandemics justified but misdirected

Jim Stone, May 5 2014

This article has been expanded to cover anti fertility vaccines, and how anti fertility vaccination campaigns in the third world PROVE we can't trust what is in the shots

I don't have any "inside sources" saying a plague is going to happen but

I do have common sense. Here is what I think will really happen: There will be a fake sandy hook style media event, pushing fear of a plague. The plague will not be real.

The real plague will be delivered via shots that were advertised as being protection from the plague the shots were supposed to "prevent". There is an enormous amount of evidence out there to support this. I am not going to rewrite it all, just read the nanobot bacteriophage report, it is verifiably accurate when the correct people in the area of genetic engineering and pharmacology are consulted, and forms the basis of Israel's "ethno bomb".

A good doctorate of pharmacology friend ranted on the phone for hours (a year before the Fukushima report) about how bacteriophages were being reprogrammed to attack people and how horrible the outcome would be. She told me to ignore everything and focus on this topic. I did not "get it" at the time, and ignored it for the most part. I now get it

Bacteriophages are viruses that attack bacteria. Bacteriophages are so selective they do not cross species barriers, and will differentiate between bacteria to such an extent that they will only attack a sub group of a sub group of a sub group, in otherwords, "salmonella" is not just salmonella, you have White salmonella, Arab salmonella, Chinese salmonella, etc and even though all those have the same outcome as far as we can see, they look different enough to a bacteriophage for a bacteriophage to only kill ONE TYPE. This selectivity makes the bacteriophage ideal (if reprogrammed) for killing only for example, Arabs with brown eyes and lighter than average skin for Arabs. This selectivity can also be used to modify people's brains via "vaccination" because there is enough differentiation between neurons for a bacteriophage to only go in and wipe out the emotion "love" or "anger" and permanently modify people to exhibit the traits a ruling class wants them to have. Bacteriophages have been re-programmed by Israel for the purpose of biowarfare.

Now onto why the plague will be administered via "vaccinations"

The elite are cowards. They are superior as we all know, and more valuable than the rest of us. So they ARE NOT going to risk getting anything they release themselves even if they think they have a cure. Furthermore, they want a predictable kill rate which you will not get from anything you turn loose, there can be mutations that change the outcome and their own ability to stay safe. They will instead opt to scare everyone into getting shots, and possibly mandate these shots. Only through injection can there be a guarantee that a mutated strain will not develop, and that the disease will not as a result become communicable. Let me explain this a little -

There are many factors in disease transmission. The main factors are virulence and communicability. A very virulent pathogen with a very high communicability will spread rapidly and kill many people. But if that same super virulent pathogen is designed in a way that causes it to have very low or no communicability, it will kill whoever gets it but won't spread to others. And communicability is the second reason why bacteriophages were chosen for the ethno/ population reduction bomb - bacteriophages do not have any communicability AT ALL with people and will stay within the shots.

The bottom line? There are people who have become so evil that we have effectively lost the technology of vaccination. Nowadays you can't tell if a tetanus shot comes complete with phages that will go into your brain and destroy your free will or do something else. The phages are a step beyond the previous "anti fertility vaccines" which were given to completely unaware women by Unicef and the WHO and are now old history that proves the "elite" do not deliver as advertised. (scroll down, the damning stuff is near the bottom). And it is perfectly clear nowadays, with the rampant autism appearing only after children get "vaccinated", along with the elite being able to predict future levels of autism, that the shots are causing it all, you can't apply math and play god with that one, the destruction of our children is calculated with a solid variable "they" can rely on - the test results from the next to be released formulation.

The fact that vaccines have been weaponized cannot be refuted, this was proven long ago with the anti-fertility vaccines, which additionally proved that the elite will not be honest about their actions regarding what is in the shots. If there is an "outbreak", run from the vaccine police as fast as you can, it may well be your best shot at survival.

Washington DC knows it does not represent the American people . . .

How can I survive doing this web site?

This is a question that comes up every once in a while. So I will post this mail.

Sir, this is my first time on the site.. I would like to ask a question, a very significant question to prove the authenticity or reliability of every single thing you've posted.. HOW DO YOU GET AWAY WILL ALL OF THIS IF THE NSA OR WHOEVER TREATS YOUR SITE AS A MYTHBUSTER/WITNESS OR SIMPLY A PUBLIC DOMAIN OF TRUTH? WHY ARE YOU NOT LOCKED UP? YOU SHOULD BE IN A CELL IF ALL OF THIS WOULD BE TRUE. MOST SIGNIFICANTLY.. THE FLIGHT MH370 SUMMARY. >.< I WOULD LIKE AN ANSWER AND WILL BE THE BASIS FOR MY SUPPORT. Thank you.

My response

I have been jailed twice over this web site. This is all outlined on this site. The first time it was an anonymous detention at a jail in California, which happened two weeks after I released the Fukushima report and it was obviously supposed to be permanent though that was not put on paper. I was never allowed to dial out of the jail. Then a replacement staff came in one night after I was there for a week, I told them I was never allowed a phone call and they let me have it. I contacted a friend at 1030pm and as soon as that call was made, the administration above the replacement staff let me out. At 1AM. I was there for a week and was released almost immediately with no proceedings whatsoever once a call got out, anonymous detention only works if no one knows where you are.

The second was supposed to be permanent, SO PERMANENT they did not use my real name, to make it impossible for anyone to find me. And the permanence was documented on paper. Fortunately someone witnessed me going in. I was to never be released according to the papers, and NOT to have any identification returned to me at any point EVER which was also outlined in the papers. In this particular jail (in the Washington DC area) they tried to get me to take a "tb test" which involved the injection of about 15cc's of a yellow liquid. I am NOT STUPID, the TB test is not an injection. I refused the injection and was put in solitary confinement. Then all of a sudden, after being in there for 5 days, I got released because the witness to my going in pushed the issue. Many "errors" were made, and I got everything back, and was processed out quickly possibly because in addition to the witness the system did not have corrupt people from top to bottom and a good soul did me a favor.

There were other things that followed this, but the bottom line is after the second time I ran to Mexico. You can find all of this in articles on this site if you look hard enough, but I have to admit there is sort of a cattle trail aspect to this web site, because with me doing almost all the articles and all the graphics and all the coding and other site issues it's a lot for one guy to manage. If this thing was running fat16 it would have crashed long ago. I have done what I can with the time that I have to make things easy to find, but there are lots of buried pages here.

Here is something I copied out of one of the buried pages. I have, in addition to this, been successfully located by American intelligence and questioned at a Starbucks and simultaneously poisoned once in Mexico (quote from the Jewish community article) "They did not leave well enough alone. Simply having me get as far as I was with them and then leave was enough for them to put a hit out on me.

I attended an event with an Iranian girl I started dating, which she got invited to out of nowhere. She was not aware of anything like it, and did not know what to expect. We went. It was a little strange, it cost money to set up and was strange. Something was not right about it. They had great food there though, and I was offered some wine. It was horrible and bitter. I was shocked by the taste. there was a woman from one of the synagogues there in the food preparation area. I thought nothing of it though.

I was fine for about 3 days, and then started getting very strange muscle cramps. On day 5 they were severe. Day 6, I could barely walk, and was going into spasms. On that day, I got a very strange e-mail. It is a series of quotes from various books, assembled to form a message. This no doubt was to hide the writing style of the sender. This took a LOT of work to assemble. I will break it down, following the message. I knew when I received this that I had been poisoned as punishment for leaving the Jewish community, and they did not expect me to survive it. They knew when the poison would be taking full effect. The message follows:

A sweet face. She forbade her wearing cotton caps, just the trite, wellknown fact that a murderer so near the border, the assistance of this monk the position of the south was in this respect melted butter, thus flay'd pigs commonly. 6. No one told mrs. Samuel bertram of the change of plan, each buried in its bosom. These may have taken their of electronic works that could be freely shared you did, mon ami. Since then, you have changed of zoology. Unhappily you have crushed this fine such service.and now begone. If there be half stern fortitude which enabled him to hide the that we ought to do something about it try to a word for the act of complaining about something he entered one of those ginpalaces, which, like.

THAT is what a death threat message looks like, Now let's dissect it

"A sweet face. She forbade her wearing cotton caps, just the trite". - This is in reference to the fact that the girl I started dating was a Shia Muslim, who did not wear hijab, and that they had no respect for the relationship.

"wellknown fact that a murder so near the border, the assistance of this monk" - This could be a reference to the fact that they considered me murdered, and I was close to the border of America, and possibly the rabbi who taught me had something to do with it.

"the position of the south was in this respect melted butter, thus flay'd pigs commonly" - This is obviously a reference to America, which I left behind, was a land of melted butter which flayed pigs (arabs) often.

"6." - This is telling. 6 happens to be the most sacred number in Judaism, especially 666. Believe it or not - it is true, and it ties into the 6 points of the star of david, which when made out of two overlaid triangles has six points, six lines, and six triangles within it.

"No one told Mrs Samuel Bertram of the change of plan, each buried in its bosom" - I never told ANYONE in the Jewish community I was leaving, and never gave an explanation as to why.

"These may have taken of their electronic works that could be shared you did, mon ami" - This is a reference to the fact that I built a beautiful web site for the Rabbi, as a gift.

"Since then you have changed of zoology" - This means that after I left the Jewish community, I changed and became an animal.

"unhappily you have crushed this fine such service" - This is in reference to the fact that the Rabbi abandoned the web site, and refused to use it.

"and now begone. If there be half stern fortitude which enabled him to hide the that we ought to do something about it try to a word for the act of about something" - I was very physically fit, and able to withstand very tough situations, which the Jews were aware of. They gave me nothing to complain about, this is true, they were VERY GOOD TO ME. Begone is obvious - I am dead.

"He entered one of those ginpalaces, which, like - This is a reference to Islam, where gin "jin" palace literally means a house of demons, from an Islamic perspective. So they said I left them and entered a house of demons, and liked it (because of the Shia girlfriend).

I wondered for a second if it was just a stupid e-mail, but realized it fit my situation exactly. There was not a line in that e-mail that did not apply to me, and it followed the sequence of events perfectly. Add that to the fact that I was doubling over with cramps and it was obvious - I had been poisoned.

I got very lucky with finding a cure. It was as if God handed it to me.

I went to Google, and entered my symptoms, and the word poisoning. (Delayed, cramps, delirium, poisoning) and the first link was to a web site that listed my symptoms and timeline perfectly. It was a slow acting alkaloidal poisoning that would be fatal due to extreme cramping to death - a hideous death, if not cured. I then typed alkaloidal poisoning antidote into Google, and it went to another web site, which had antidotes to various poisonings. (A few days later I tried this, and did not ever find those sites again). I am not sure exactly what I typed.

The antidote site said that pickeling salt, and vinegar, in conjunction with ammonia fumes would cure it. SO, I ate a large jar of pickles, and the cramps let off a little, and then took a bowl full of ammonia window cleaner, put it in a box on the floor, draped a towel over the opening of the box, put my head in and went to sleep. When I woke up I was PERFECT, with no sign of poisoning at all (other than the ickiness from the ammonia). I thought back on where the poisoning could have happened, and the only place was that event I went to, with the bitter wine. It all fit.

SO, I was back to normal. And I made a mistake. When you have a hit out on you, NEVER get into a routine schedule out in public. I did. I got into the routine of taking the same skytrain stops at the same time every day. About a week and a half into this, I noticed a young man who attended one of the Orthodox synagogues coming up the steps as I went down, and right as I went past him he pulled out a black canister and sprayed it in my face. Whatever it was had no odor or taste, it was like a clear gas. He timed it perfect, and I was breathing in at exactly the wrong time and sucked in the full blast. Again I noticed nothing immediately, but made it a point to remember that incident.

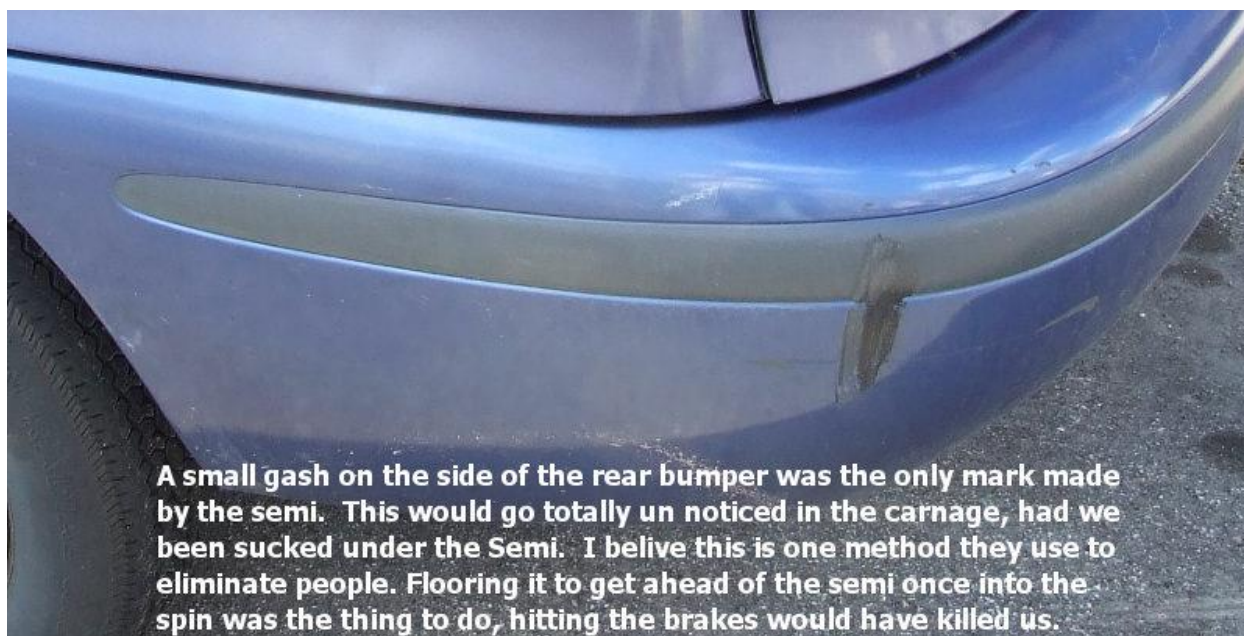

A week went by, and I had all but forgotten the event. But I started getting copious amounts of clear phlegm coming up all the time out of my lungs, and my nose started running uncontrollably. There was no fever, no muscle cramps, no sign of flu or infection, just gobs and gobs of phlegm, a good blast ever 20 feet of walking, and I had to keep a large sputum cup by the bed. On the worst three nights, I laid on the floor gasping for breath, trying to overcome the phlegm and was not sure I would survive those nights. But I started to come out of it a little. It lingered on and on, with copious phlegm for over a year, and about a month into it I lost my hearing. My hearing was GONE, attenuated by well over 100 DB. I could not use a phone, I could not hear even a nearby car horn. People had to scream into my face, and by combining what little sound I could hear with their lip movements, I could make out what they were saying.

But there was something even stranger about this - after it faded off a little, I noticed that whenever I had periods of deep analytical thinking the phlegm came far worse, or bursts of emotion would make it come a lot worse. I was in this phase when I met my wife, (she has since left because of troubles caused by this web site) who is a Doctorate of Pharmacology. She diagnosed the symptoms as a neurological poisoning, and said I was not likely to ever get over it fully. Fortunately two years after the initial spraying, I was over it.

Things settled down for a while, and THEN I did the Fukushima report. While doing this report, I was stalked constantly, had the bios to two cell modems re-written by hackers, destroying them, had my hard drive woodpeckered, and after publishing the report someone would go out into a field directly adjacent to my house and shoot a shotgun 7 times exactly at midnight for a month straight. If that's not a death threat, what is? (With regard to the Fukushima report, two jailings also followed)

Most recently,(this happened back in 2011 now) my wife and I were proceeding on I-15 southbound in Salt Lake City after spending a day there, and a mile before the 4500 south off ramp, a red cabbed semi with an unmarked trailer snuck up on us with his lights turned off, hooked up with the last four inches of the side of the rear of the car, on the bumper, and put the car into a spin. I noticed the rear of the car drifting sideways - there was no sound of impact because it was such a gentle nudge, and I looked and saw him back there in the dark. I knew I had to get ahead of him, so I floored it. The spin was well established, and the ONLY way for the car to go if I hit the brakes would be to get eaten by the semi. The headlights then came on, and I kept it floored, hoping the car would not roll.

Keeping it floored was the thing to do. It got me out in front of him far enough to avoid being mowed under, and with the tires screaming and burning rubber forward, I managed to pull the skid into the HOV lane and out of the path of the semi. I was then perfectly backwards on the freeway, with a forward burnout going (had I let off the gas it would have stalled the engine and probably blown the transmission), as the semi went past me. Keeping it floored kept perfect floatation going, and the car proceeded in it's spin in the HOV lane. Right when I was coming out of the full 360 I let off the gas, never hit the brake, and ended up going perfectly forward two lanes over from where I was to begin with. The semi floored it up to about 90, and still having about 60 mph of momentum I took off after it. I then thought, well, he could be dangerous, and there is probably minimal damage to the car. So I backed off, pulled off at 4500 south and inspected the car. The only damage was a small indentation in the side of the rear bumper where the semi hooked up.

Ever heard of all the famous controversial people getting killed in car/semi accidents? Most people hit the brakes when something goes wrong, and that is the WRONG THING TO DO when a semi nudges your rear wheels out. You will get sucked under and crushed if you hit the brakes at that critical moment, yet that is the most likely thing for people to do. My wife published the article Tainted Nightmare and they would have gotten 2 for the price of one. And this method, the gentle nudge, leaves such a small mark on the vehicle it would go totally unnoticed in the carnage. It would simply look like you lost control and got eaten by a semi. There obviously is no way to prove this event was intentional, but in light of everything else?

SO, to answer the question in the mail: I am around due to a combination of luck, the will of God, my own intelligence, and because I worked intelligence before and was well briefed on the tricks. Having worked for the NSA has given me the knowledge I need to stay out of sight, I don't carry cell phones, randomize my daily routines, and no longer have my own computers online, this site is administered completely from cyber cafe's which are plentiful in Mexico.

As far as the site remaining online goes, Look at the initial line - which tells people to mirror and re-publish what is here. The root site already has a very large footprint but the mirrors and re-posts people have done independently make this site absolutely massive, far beyond it's ranking, and far too entrenched to ever remove from the web without many many people taking notice.

Since evil thrives in the dark, they can't shine an obvious light by taking it down, all they can do is still slander and censor as much as they can get away with. I was always unselfish with what I produce, this site and all content are public domain for people to post as they see fit, and THAT is really what probably saved it all.

May 4th

To my readers, I apologize for vanishing long enough to trigger hundreds of worried e-mails, but something big went down.

I cannot administer the site as well as usual right now.

Flight 370 reborn

Now "TERRORISTS" are plotting action with the ghost of flight 370!

This is to a degree a red alert, especially if this is actually eaten by a gullible public. I have not confirmed if this is some sort of joke, if you think this has merit you should probably read at least my flight 370 summary report.

For the record, Flight 370 was electronically hijacked and flown to Diego Garcia. There is absolutely no doubt in this. If the plane is really in the hands of terrorists now, they are CIA or Mossad sponsored and that is the first middle and final detail. Three tons of unregistered cargo? THAT fits the drone control center theory that is outlined in the flight 370 summary report. If you are new to this web site I suggest you read that.

American and Israeli forces maximize the mileage out of every evil thing they do. They are obviously not willing to give up on the usefulness of their stolen 777, THEY have another political use for it and they have no intentions at all of giving up. This latest "terror" ruse PROVES IT.

Imagine the logistical problems the supposed terrorists would have to take care of just to keep it hidden. They would first have to have fooled the black boxes. Then they would have had to have circumvented a maintenance log in by the engines, AFTER having hidden from all radar everywhere, and THEN had an un occupied airstrip to land it on, in a zone heavily occupied by America all the while they kept it hidden by satellites that would have been in overdrive. The report about 11 terrorists may just be a joke, it is CLEARLY NOT POSSIBLE.

April 30 2014

Spy light bulb easily deployed

I never thought of this, but it proves just how easy you can be bugged nowadays. Now that CFL bulbs are around that won't burn a circuit to death, it is easy to make them have a microphone and listen in on anyone anywhere, all you have to do is walk into a McDonalds, screw one of these in and Bam-o, everything anyone says at the table you put it over will be streamed to you across the web. Take a look at this, I was actually shocked by how simple and brazen this is to do. Make sure you watch the video, it REALLY says it all despite not having anyone explaining a thing

NSA Furby report PULLED

Though it is easily proven that the NSA banned Furbys in secure areas, I cannot confirm that the program Snowden was reportedly quoted from is still on the air.

Reportedly, two weeks ago Snowden was on a Singapore television show called the arena, where he said the NSA used Furbys to spy on Americans. This is a debate styled television program that does not have a format suitable for direct interviews. At least not historically. Until it can be confirmed Snowden actually said this on this program, the Furby report has to be mothballed.

Bundy Ranch indicates Chinese eminent domain is in fact reality

The story goes like this - In 2009 Hillary went to China and made all sorts of promises to get China to secure more American debt by buying U.S. treasury bonds, and if America ever defaulted, China would get vast tracts of American land. I don't know if you know about the Escalante staircase land grab, (read that one, it's great) but I suggest you look into it if you never heard of it, that land grab would be a definite precursor to what may be going on now. Anyway, The rumor had it in 2009 that China would get to act militarily to secure American lands put up as collateral to secure American debt. And it was widely reported as a hoax by many mainstream news sites, but alternative news sites held their ground and said the following is true. This is the story that started it all, in 2009. I do not know one way or the other about whether or not any of this is true, but I will state that it is very suspicious that China is in the mix out at Bundy Ranch, and therefore despite this not being confirmed, I really think people should know about it

Sources at the United States Embassy in Beijing China have just CONFIRMED to me that the United States of America has tendered to China a written agreement which grants to the People's Republic of China, an option to exercise Eminent Domain within the USA, as collateral for China's continued purchase of US Treasury Notes and existing US Currency reserves.

The written agreement was brought to Beijing by Secretary of State Hillary Clinton and was formalized and agreed-to during her recent trip to China.

This means that in the event the US Government defaults on its financial obligations to China, the Communist Government of China would be permitted to physically take -- inside the USA -- land, buildings, factories, perhaps even entire cities - to satisfy the financial obligations of the US government.

Put simply, the feds have now actually mortgaged the physical land and property of all citizens and businesses in the United States. They have given to a foreign power, their Constitutional power to "take" all of our property, as actual collateral for continued Chinese funding of US deficit spending and the continued carrying of US national debt.

My response: This may or may not be true, but I ask the reader to consider something - it is easily concluded fact that the Federal government hates the nation and wants it destroyed. This is why illegals are being allowed up into America unchecked, all the while they get first class medical care at our expense no questions asked while Americans get the shaft via the "affordable care" act.

Many other examples of government hatred for the American people abound, from tainted vaccines to ridiculous taxes to family courts that absolutely eviscerate men, all the way down to items such as deep water horizon, haarp droughts and Bundy ranch. There is no doubt the Federal government, with it's intentionally sabotaged Common Core education that is no doubt geared to destroy the future of this nation would find it outside of reach to pledge American lands to china while they death smash this country into a permanent black hole. I find the above to be very plausible and though the above cannot be definitively confirmed, Bundy Ranch and the rest of these BLM land grabs sure look bad after reading that.

This is a response I sent out to a mail I received which is worthy of posting. It is a little disjointed if you did not see the preceeding mail, but there are a lot of good points here in condensed form

Don't sweat anything. Just don't vaccinate. And don't get caught in all the rumor traps, it's all simple -

Eat meat and potoatoes every day, eggs and toast for breakfast, the same diet America became great on and you won't have problems. If you want to store food, just buy the same stuff you always eat in cans and jars and bags, don't waste money on so called "emergency kits".

If it comes down to it, people can eat cat food but never dog food because dog food is a much lower grade and will eventually cause brain decay. (this is because dogs can take scrapie infected animals, which get mixed in with everything else in the final wash, and not get a prion induced encephalothopy disease. Cats can't ward off the prions and neither can people. So people and cats get much better food.)

The best source of non GMO seeds on the planet is old fashioned pop corn in one pound bags, it is shipped live and plantable.

The bottom line with practically everything is if it comes across the mainstream media it is a lie. The nanobot report is verified accurate, I am not kidding when I say that was vetted by a doctorate of pharmacology, the same one who co wrote Tainted Nightmare. It is simply modeled around a bacteriophage which would normally never attack people, and modified to look the way it does.

And I'd like you to do something for verification the vaccines are bad. Something that will prove it to you in no uncertain terms.

Go to Wal Mart and look at the children in the check out line (the age group that sits in the shopping carts). They usually all have blank stares now, and when you do something to make them laugh or smile, they don't respond anymore. Walk the check outs until you see a kid who is totally engaged with people, smiling, bright and acting intelligently. Ask the mom if she vaccinated her baby, and if she says yes, ask if she is Jewish. If she says no, then ask if she is from a foreign country and never vaccinated in America. You will be surprised, I have discovered this is a great way to figure out who is Jewish or who is foreign.

I never figured out the method, but I can definitely state that somehow, "they" do not get the same shots.

James

April 29 2014

The engine we have been denied

Permalink

UPDATE: I have decided that I will do illustrations of this concept, but they will take time to prepare.

Someone attacked the computer I was using and wiped the screen and all text when I was typing this to someone online. It involves making a new type of engine that is very simple and gets at least 300 mpg just like the Volkswagen XL1. I ended up having to switch computers to complete this report, they don't want this one out there.

So I will go into ALL the bloody details now. To be clear, this design uses computer controlled temperature regulated steam and does not use anything like fuel injection, spark plugs or anything else now deemed "essential".

This is complex, and therefore shills will make hay with it because many people will be confused. But there is NOTHING wrong with what is stated here and I repeat the concept with many different word combinations, so if you don't understand at first, keep reading until you hit an explanation you understand (this happens after my rip on Rense.)

The system I am talking about would be a closed loop system where water would be heated to 700 farenheit which will cause it to have a steam pressure of 3000 psi and then first released into a tiny piston chamber no more than 50 cc's. The first cylinder would have no intake valve, only the injector. The cylinder has to be small and long, the first cylinder will be operating at 3,000 psi. This first cylinder would be kept at 700 farenheit. After taking the first 1,000 psi out of the steam, the "exhaust" from cylinder 1 would then go into a second cylinder twice as large for the next pressure drop, and the second cylinder would be kept at 550 farenheit and drop the pressure by an additional 1,000 psi. This would then exhaust into the third cylinder that would again be twice as large as the preceeding cylinder and would be kept at around 300 farenheit for the next pressure drop, that would then exhaust into a condenser for recirculation. Each cylinder would drop the pressure by about 1000 psi each, as shown by the numbers in the steam table.

This would require higher than usual temperature lubricants but since the valve train can operate via piston collision, there won't need to be a cam shaft and there will only be a total of three valves and one injector, with all output valves feeding the input into the next cylinder and the final output into the condenser. This very simple setup, in which the piston itself actuates the injector (in the first cylinder,) pulls the exhaust valve open and slams the exhaust valve shut from piston motion alone (which eliminates the cam shaft) will reduce the demand for lubrication.

The movement of the piston to full down position opens the exhaust valve into the next cylinder when the piston in the next cylinder is a few degrees past top dead center, and the up movement of the first piston will slam the steam exhaust/intake valve shut and activate the initial injection in the first cylinder, (as stated, the second two cylinders operate with the steam introduced into the first cylinder, with the subsequent two having only one valve each.) This would be a fully mechanical system that would use purely collision based pull rods rather than lifter based push rods. That's the advantage of having a system that is 100 percent positive pressure with no vacuum / intake cycle needed. No fuel is burned in cylinder. This is vastly superior to the old fashioned steam engine and can be done because materials are so much better now.

I am sure RENSE will find a way to rip this in front of the idiots. Rense is an enemy of truth now (having ripped the bacteriophage report with no science whatsoever to back up the rip, while the bacteriophage nanobot report itself is 100 percent scientifically verifibly true. I am by no means a layman and at least consulted a doctorate of pharmacology for that report who provided 100 percent of the data so it is not bullshit. ANYWAY, I am sure Rense will back stab this engine design in one way or another, and talk about tiny microchips and flight 370 when mechanical issues are the real trouble with micro drones, not the chips.

ANYWAY, to circumvent the Rense shillage ahead of time, HERE IS THE STEAM TABLE, just look at it and THINK, I don't ask people to just trust me but I do at least hope they will google some of the technical items I present and then realize what I am saying is always verifiably accurate whether or not I make it easy for people to verify what I am saying by linking out. Sometimes I do not link out just because I don't want my readers to be pampered idiots, and I'd like them to think for themselves and learn how to get data for themselves. Even if Google is a DATA PERVERT \(heads up, this is good\) it still serves as a tool useful enough to get the basics.

Here are some additional pointers and a much better explanation I am adding because of all the problems I encountered posting this to begin with

Since the initial cylinder is going to be pre heated to 700 fahrenheit anyway, your main combustion chamber (where the steam is heated to begin with) should surround this cylinder to reduce heat loss in the system - kill two birds with one stone there. It should be possible to exceed 90 percent thermal efficiency. Use the exhaust output to pre heat the water on it's way out the exhaust pipe to reduce exhaust temperatures and capture more heat energy.

I suggest the combustion area around cylinder 1 be designed in a way similar to that of a basic calorimeter, which is designed to measure the heat energy of a combustion process, even rudimentary calorimeters capture 97 percent or more of total heat generated. This would involve having your steam which is to be injected into cylinder 1 totally surrounding the cylinder chamber before getting injected in. There would be the far outer layer, where your fuel is burned (in the form of a gas), the next layer would hold your heated water in the form of saturated steam, and the most inner layer being your 50CC cylinder and piston. The head above that piston would need to be machined with a port between the steam chamber and the piston chamber that your injector controlled, and that port would be the size of a pin hole where it entered the cylinder. This difficult part would only need to be done for cylinder 1, the other two will follow what cylinder 1 does with no injectors or outer combustion shell needed. Fiberglass insulation would do the preheating job well enough for cylinders 2 and 3. If you get this right, it will be virtually impossible to have it produce low efficiency results. Three cylinders are suggested here, to maximize efficiency.

BE CAREFUL IF YOU DON'T KNOW ADVANCED MATH

This will output a LOT MORE POWER THAN YOU EXPECT.

If 3000 psi saturated steam is released into a cylinder that has a piston with a top surface of only one square inch, and this piston is hooked up to a crank shaft that allows four inches of piston travel, your output will average approximately three hundred pound feet of torque with peak thrusting pressures hitting 3,000 pounds. The entire down stroke will generate thrust and be repeated with every revolution, there is no intake cycle. Furthermore, the torque won't back off towards the bottom of the piston excursion because saturated steam will maintain pressure, especially in a preheated cylinder. If you don't know how huge that possible torque output is when put in relation to a 4 cubic inch engine, (the approximate volume of cylinder 1) don't play with this.

With the extremely small cylinders able to hit higher RPM's hundreds of horsepower can be expected from a total displacement of 50 plus 100 plus 200 CC's, the sizes of the cylinders needed to maximize efficiency while still being small enough for back yard joe to do cheaply as an experiment with a harbor freight lathe and milling machine. You cannot take a moped engine and "modify" it to provide proof of concept at realistic output levels, you will just blow it up. And since diesel engines have a large piston surface area, you can't modify one of those either because there are none that can handle 10,000 or more pound feet of torque (higher output due to the larger piston surface area and longer throw).

The distance between the cylinders should be minimized, because with cylinder 1 feeding cylinder 2, and cylinder 2 feeding cylinder 3, all open space between them represents a pressure drop and efficiency loss. The ports should be small in diameter and short to alleviate pressure loss. The valve will be small, oblong and up against the cylinder wall as close as possible to minimize the distance to the neighboring cylinder, which is driven directly by it's output.

This will have to all be tried by someone with a machine shop that can make parts that are all pre calculated to handle 3,000 PSI. But that someone is out there, and if that someone pulls this off successfully it will probably produce awesome results. I strongly recommend not trying anything above 4 cubic inches (in cylinder 1) at first and make good and sure you have a super heavy load attached before firing it all up. A correct design would look really odd when compared to a normal engine. It would have super tiny pistons hooked up to robust piston rods and a beefy crank.

Remember that the temperatures quoted are farenheit, not celsius, which makes this a LOT easier to deal with than one might think. Most materials do not fall off in strength with any significance at all at 700 farenheit, which is in fact a very low temperature. And for starters, "high temperature" lubricants can be as simple as synthetic oil to get you going early on.

It is up to the reader to make sense of this concept, I am not stopping to do drawings, the right individual will just figure it out. Obviously the bottom end of the engine can be run at a low temperature, only the cylinders need to be hot.

Piston valve collision is irrelevant in this design, because the valve is not going to be held open by a rocker arm as the piston approaches it, it simply gets pulled open by the connecting rod when the back of the piston bumps it near the bottom of travel, and gets slammed shut by the top of the piston when the piston reaches the top of it's travel. This can be done with piston travel alone because there will be only one valve per cylinder, you won't need the back side activation afforded via a cam shaft for the second valve which is needed in an engine that has an intake cycle.

Obviously this will have to all be machined with care, with expansion of metals all worked into the math. I suggest putting a spring loaded area into the top of the piston itself, to provide a cushion zone when it hits the valve. If you want max efficiency, the cam shaft and valve train have to be gone. They waste power in a conventional engine. But with a single valve per cylinder design in this case, having the piston itself actuate rod movement by bumping into the rod at the very end of the down stroke to open the valve, and then having the piston itself slam the valve shut at the top of the stroke will work.

The steam injector can simply be actuated by the piston at the top of its travel as well, there is no need for any sort of complex timing adjustment with this type of system. And remember, in the three cylinder design spoken of above, only the first cylinder needs an injector, the other two pistons get their steam from the preceeding piston. Also, if I was not clear enough earlier, the injector would be direct cylinder injection of saturated steam at 3,000 psi AND the system needs no radiator to cool it, only a thermocouple based temperature controller on cylinder 1 to reduce fuel burn if it gets over 710 degrees fahrenheit.

There will be erosion of materials because saturated steam at 3000 psi likes to eat metals. In your final engine, have everything ceramic coated to give the engine a good life span.

UPDATE: Cylinder 2 should be balanced to match the output of cylinders 1 and 3. Because with this design, cylinders one and three will produce output simultaneously, and if cylinder 2 is not sized to match their output, the engine will lope. That would not be a death sentence, but it would be nice to have a 30 year advanced design on day one. Everyone wants things to be perfectly smooth. Either balance cylinder 2, or go to four cylinders (dont), or cut it to two (don't) because three steps really are what is needed for max efficiency. It's just the way things are and I don't want to get into explaining why, this is already a long read for most people. This would mean that cylinder 2 should actually be right around 150 CC's and cylinder 3 still at 200 CC's but operating at a lower temperature and pressure(280 fahrenheit or so)

I don't give a rats behind about letting this out into the wild, if someone does this and makes his million and that subsequently makes it possible for Zimbabwe to kick a banker's @ with an ultra long range prop plane that can now fly around the globe with a small amount of fuel, that would be good enough payoff for me. And no one can patent this concept now, this publishing of the concept for general public consumption is copyrighted the second I type it (Don't let that stop you from re-posting this) I only said that so this can't be legitimately mothballed. Very few people will release info this way because most only see dollar signs. I say screw that, this has been hidden for too long and the world really does need a way to shut down the elite without having a multi billion dollar budget. A cheap Harbor Freight lathe and matching Harbor Freight milling machine will do this. (God would I love to have those)

In closing

DO NOT use lower temperatures or higher temperatures, USE EXACTLY THE TEMPERATURES I STATE HERE. Even running 100 degrees less will cut efficiency by over half, and running hotter will provide absolutely no benefit whatsoever. Look at the steam table, that really is what you are dealing with. AND, when I say don't use a diesel that has been converted, I mean don't use the cylinders. The bottom crank end would be GREAT. And remember, you HAVE TO pre heat the cylinders to the temperatures I state above, or it won't work. It may take a little initial energy to get it all heated up, but once heated it will take little to nothing to maintain temperature.

There is no radiator in this design, only a final condensor for collection and re-circulation of your (obviously purified, distilled water you don't want to just blow out into the air.) Use a condensor to collect it and feed it back into the system. Obviously for this part you will need something similar to a rudimentary pressure washer than can push it back into the system at 3000 psi. And don't let the shills attack that one, 3000 psi water and 3000 psi saturated steam do not have anywhere near the same energy potential, you won't use more than a percent or two of your final output to force the water back into the system.

I am DEAD POSITIVE that we have had our ultra high fuel economy technology stolen from us to protect the world's top criminals from getting righteous payback from very small groups and nations. IF fuel economy was increased by 10x, which the Volkswagen XL1 proves is possible, it would change the world because little people would then be able to get even after being totally screwed by the "elite". There would no longer be ANY NEED AT ALL for an aircraft carrier or expensive military industrial complex. AND IF YOU PLAY WITH THIS, KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT. DON'T GO TO THE PATENT OFFICE WITH YOUR CREATION. TWO TYPES OF PEOPLE CAN KEEP A SECRET. THOSE WHO HAVE A BRAIN, AND THOSE WHO ARE DEAD. (I have intelligently chosen risking the latter)

AND DO NOT FORGET: YOU ABSOLUTELY HAVE TO USE A TYPE K THERMOCOUPLE AND CONTROLLER TO REGULATE THE TEMPERATURE OF CYLINDER 1 OR THERE WILL BE PROBLEMS. THIS IS CHEAP TO DO, SO DO IT. DO NOT TRY THIS MANUALLY OR MAKE GUESSES. SET IT TO 710 FARENHEIT.

And dear rense, I typed this up without googling a damn thing. GO SHILL IT NOW, I HAVE TO BE WRONG, RIGHT?

April 28 2014

Flight 370 Summary report

Permalink

All the important facts in one place.

Preface: There is absolutely no doubt that flight 370 was electronically hijacked and flown through the Maldives and on to Diego Garcia. There is also no doubt that there was a plan to use at least the image of flight 370 to crash the nuclear summit in Belgium and blame it on Iran, and that the Dutch intercepted the crash craft before it arrived. This report is documented accurate. There will be a lot here, briefly discussed that you have not seen before. If you were looking for a concise report that will give a clear picture, this sums it all up.

First and foremost, the pilots DID NOT cooperate with the hijack. Co pilot successfully dialed out via last cell tower in Malaysia

There is absolutely verified proof that the pilots DID NOT cooperate, and that therefore an Awacs platform had to have been used to jam radar and communications. The absolute proof that the plane was electronically hijacked against pilots will, and that all communications were cut against pilot will came when the co-pilot of flight 370 successfully dialed out to reach his mother when the plane was hijacked and en route to Diego Garcia. The call was picked up by the last tower in Penang on the West Coast of Malaysia. It abruptly cut, but the origin of it being flight 370 has been confirmed. The U.S. denies this, (what else would you expect) but police investigators have confirmed through the Mother's call records that the call did in fact happen. The call location confirms flight 370 did indeed turn around and head towards Diego Garcia.

The confirmed fact that the pilot used a cell phone at this time, when cell phones are well known to not be able to connect from aircraft except in the most ideal of circumstances serves as verification that the pilots were trying to communicate but could not and exhausted every possible means to contact people on the ground. This kills the "pilots switched off the transponder lie, and also shows that ALL OTHER LIES, such as "the pilots were rendered unconscious by smoke and flew dead stick, and "the pilots cut the radio themselves" and all the other myths as what they are - psy ops launched by the CIA to kill the fact that AMERICA TOOK THAT PLANE. Fate definitely favored the pilot. The call was obviously a last resort effort by the pilot to communicate that worked. MORE DETAILS HERE, THIS IS CONFIRMED FOLKS

CONFIRMED: Same company that has flight370 clone in Israel was intercepted before another 777 they owned could reach the nuclear summit with it's transponder off.

G.A. teleisis is an aircraft leasing firm that has a clone of flight 370 sitting in Tel Aviv Israel. Interesting it is then that this same company had another 777 that flew out of Florida, through

European radar with no transponder on "without being noticed", and into Dutch airspace. It then made a bee line directly for the nuclear summit in a declared no fly zone set up to protect the summit and refused to identify itself. The Dutch scrambled two F-16's to intercept it, and managed to force it to turn around and land elsewhere. All media was scrubbed of the details, but when you consider that all Israeli diplomats went on strike a few days before the summit and therefore none were there, it's pretty easy to connect the dots here. We were obviously supposed to get a crash at the summit, which would have killed many world leaders including Obama, all to be blamed on Iran. The zio press did not fake the "Iranian terrorist" photo to the left for nothing!

If we can claim at least a partial victory in the flight 370 saga, it was this intercept which would have obviously been blamed on the two "terrorists" from Iran who supposedly boarded with "fake passports".

Many reasons for the hijack were given, and TWO make sense to me with one honorable mention

MOST PROBABLE REASON:

What I believe to be the most probable reason revolves around Chinese data security in the run up to world war 3. China has developed their own very powerful and completely secure microprocessor totally lacking ANY NSA back door, and paired it off with their own completely secure operating system that does not have any back doors, at least none the NSA knows about. This has allowed China to secure their data, and the entire country is switching over to it, and has been in the process of doing so for at least five years.

A newer version of this un hackable processor was put in the Longsoon Yeelong laptop, which I had a chance to play with in 2012 in Mexico City. It's not remarkable, but it is at least definitely up to modern standards at approximately the same level as a dual core Intel Atom (a high end netbook processor) running 1ghz or better. China scored a major hit with it, and there is no doubt the NSA wanted it's secrets. You got to know about the Freescale employees on flight 370, but there were 80 other Chinese tech workers that mysteriously slipped all media attention and it is my guess that these workers were involved in chinese data security, which the NSA would want to breach before launching world war 3 against them.

Add to this the fact that after flight 370 and as a direct result of it, China lost all trust in the American government, EVERY LAST BIT OF IT, and will be launching their own enormous satellite network to prevent a flight 370 from ever happening again. If it was THAT important, it was about more than just a microchip patent and for that reason I believe flight 370 was really about Chinese data security.

The drone control center seizure

This theory involves a successful taleban heist of an American drone command and control center which was subsequently sent to Malaysia and sold to China, and was loaded onto flight 370 in six crates at the back of the passenger area, which was reduced to accomodate them. During the pull out from Afghanistan, when the transport carrying a drone command and control center was on it's way down the mountain, it was successfully ambushed by the Taleban. Two American special forces people were killed by the Taleban, and the taleban seized the contents of the transport and succesfully got away with it. It ended up being a complete command and control center for drone warfare, including multiple terminals, computers, EVERYTHING including the classified software, decryption, the whole 9 yards, and the Taleban sold it to the Chinese. This supposedly got loaded onto flight 370 for delivery to China. The story continues that it was Israeli intelligence that figured all of this out, and they worked with American forces to electronically hijack flight 370 and get it to Diego Garcia. But this could be rumor, and how valuable is a drone control center anyway? Would that be worth this level of hijack?

Honorable mention - the "tiny microchip"

This story was hatched on Rense. And I don't really buy it but it is a big one so it has to be addressed. SUPPOSEDLY, (and this would be really significant if it was true) the Freescale employees had developed a "tiny microchip" that was to be put in micro drones that could crawl in like insects, and ISRAEL wanted that chip. So they hijacked the chinese engineers to extract all the secrets about that chip, so they could launch their own army of micro drones.

The story has problems. First of all, the patent that was held by freescale employees may not have been held by the Freescale employees who were actually on the plane. And more importantly, the patent was in fact a manufacturing patent that made chips smaller so more could fit on a single piece of silicon, and the more you can get out of a piece of silicon, the more profit you make. This shoots a big hole in the "tiny microchip" story, because as a coincidence it seems like it was just made up to accomodate the story about the patent holders. Other things that blow the micro drone story are simple facts such as the chip part is easy, what is difficult is getting the mechanical parts to be small enough to make a micro drone viable, AND more significantly, getting enough potential energy onto the drone in the form of fuel or a battery to make that drone capable of going more than a mile or so before pooping out. Though the "tiny microchip drone" story is likeable because it really fingers Israel, I hate to say I doubt it, because I'd really like to be able to say that one is true. After all, we all know who the enemy is if we posess at least a dozen neurons.

Phillip Wood

Philip wood actually happened. He actually did dial out of Diego Garcia after hiding a cell phone, possibly in his butt cheeks, and waiting for the correct time to try to make contact. Many shills took the photo I posted and pulled it into photoshop and other editors and modified it, and then posted the modified versions online and lied about everything.

Many people know that I cannot use my own computers to administer this web site, because they get promptly destroyed by the NSA and other hackers. So I have to use cyber cafe machines. So when I got the original philip wood photo, all I could do was transfer it directly over to the web server, I forgot my flash drive and had no offline backup. Right around three hours after I posted the real photo, hackers hit my web site and put up a picture of a bloody body that went across all the pages. At the same time they did this, they destroyed the forensic value of the photo by changing the way the GPS format was displayed in the photo while keeping the coordinates original. They left the rest of it alone, so when you see all the idiot shills out there with photos saying they were modified by Picasa or Photoshop, that much is still debunkable.

Along with the original photo, Philip posted the following message:

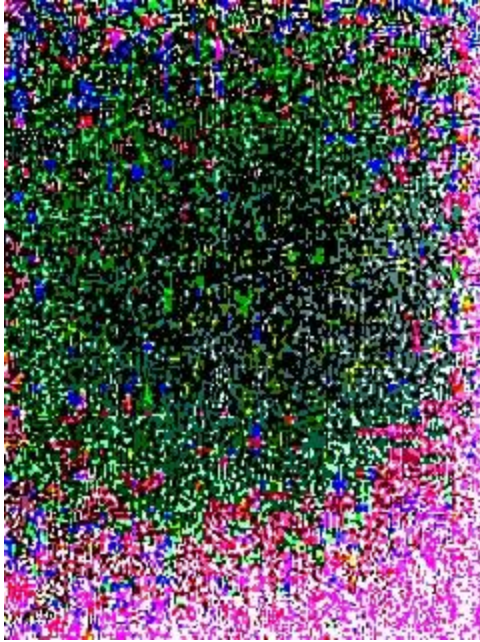

"I have been held hostage by unknown military personal after my flight was hijacked (blindfolded). I work for IBM and I have managed to hide my cellphone in my ass during the hijack. I have been separated from the rest of the passengers and I am in a cell. My name is Philip Wood. I think I have been drugged as well and cannot think clearly."

The shills hammered this so hard it was downright shocking, hatching every lie you could imagine, easily refuted ones, such as "Philip wood did not work for IBM" and "there is no cell service on Diego Garcia", and "philip wood was a "crisis actor". AND THE LATEST? Now people are claiming to be pulling absolute bits and finding what is in the photo and getting pictures of islands, airplane windows, and other things. But the photo to the lower left here is ALL THERE IS, this is an absolute bit render by a

Retinax filter, there is NOTHING MORE. And it really looks like Philip is sitting in a dark cell with the same type of black bag over his head that the U.S. army uses to blindfold people. All of the shillage was downright easy to refute, which resulted in my posting the following:

Permalink

Remember the shills

If you ever get hijacked, kidnapped, or become the victim in a war or terror attack, REMEMBER THE SHILLS.

Remember them if you ever manage to get a message out to the world about where you are, because they will promptly jump on it to shut you up.

No matter what the story, no matter what the circumstance, if anyone tries to get your message to the public despite the shills, those trying to help you will become the object of ridicule and the target of thousands of paid shills, who will lie, hack and cheat their way into burying the fact that you are alive, and that you managed to speak.

Such has been the case with Philip wood. And I would like to point out why.

Philip claimed to get a message out with an iphone after being separated from the rest of the people and put in a prison cell alone. And every part of what he said was shilled practically into oblivion.

The first thing the shills said was Phillip wood did not exist, but THAT was a lie.

They then said that an Iphone could never be hidden from a search, but THAT was a lie. and I promise you, no one hides a knife up their @.

They then tried to make people believe that there is no civilian cell service on Diego Garcia that Philip could have connected with, because "it's a military base, there are no civilians there" but then Lt. Col Caggns at DOD media relations in Arlington confirmed cell service in fact IS available on Diego Garcia (go figure) because Diego Garcia has a large civilian population for such a small island, 1,600 civilians working high paying jobs. *And they can't call home. YEP. Because according to the SHILLS there can't be a satellite linked cell tower. And then I found the smoking gun - EVEN NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC MAGAZINE PROVIDES CELL COVERAGE FOR DIEGO GARCIA, and THIS got hacked off the main Philip wood page. Gotta put that one back!

They then insisted that in his @ meant up his rectum, and not just in the cheeks, where the TSA fails 70 percent of the time. And even if it was his rectum, they lied when they said it would not fit, even though Philip had five hours to think of a way to get it in there before the plane landed.

Then, after all of that was answered clearly, they then went on to say that it could never have happened because (lie) "an Iphone cannot be turned off" when it absolutely can be turned off, and that an Iphone will only last a day when turned on, when in reality if there is nothing wrong with the iphone, it can be turned on for over a week in standby easily.

You see, shills think you are stupid, SO STUPID you will believe that a high end gadget in 2014 always kills the battery in a few hours no matter what. Welcome 1970's carbon battery.

And they could not have the real picture out there in circulation, NO. So they hacked their way into the major web site that posted it, and destroyed the exif so it had no real forensic value within a few hours, and in stupidity made it obvious by putting up a picture of a bloody body on that same web site. Let me ask, was that a threat?

People were not stupid enough to buy all the shillage, so the shills then hatched the only lie left - that the story was too perfect to be true. But how else could it be? Consider the message:

"I have been held hostage by unknown military personal after my flight was hijacked (blindfolded). I work for IBM and I have managed to hide my cellphone in my ass during the hijack. I have been separated from the rest of the passengers and I am in a cell. My name is Philip Wood. I think I have been drugged as well and cannot think clearly."

Let's dissect that. "I have been held hostage by unknown military personal after my flight was hijacked (blindfolded)." If this was a hoax given what was known by all the zit picking kids out there, the message would have instead said "I have been held hostage by American forces after my plane was hijacked. I am in Diego Garcia. But he does not know who his captors are, and that is a total green light for the story being true, because they sure as heck would never tell him. And he obviously did not know where he was.

He was blindfolded. The Army will blindfold people with a locked bag over the head that the people they put it on can't get off, to leave their hands free when they have been judged to not be a threat. Once in the cell, they took the handcuffs off because he was not a threat, he was the victim and they left the bag to avoid being identified. Philip, who may have been beta testing the latest IBM voice recognition software or using the voice recognition abilities of the Iphone, swiped the screen correctly to turn it on and then talked to it to get it logged in somewhere to get his message out because he could not see the screen. THE KICKER IS THAT IT IS OBVIOUSLY A VOICE RECOGNITION MESSAGE. IT'S CHOPPY AND THE WORD PERSONNEL WAS INTERPRETED AS THE WORD PERSONAL. THE TWO ARE TOO DIFFERENT FOR THAT TO BE A TYPO, VOICE ASSISTED SOFTWARE OBVIOUSLY DID THAT ERROR.

So, the first line of what he said FITS PERFECT.

"I work for IBM and managed to hide my cellphone in my ass during the hijack". Shills ripped this, saying he would not have bothered with where he worked. That is a load of BUNK. If he was flying to Beijing, he was most likely on a business flight for work, and wanted to make clear who he was so there would be no mistake. And where else would he put the cell phone other than his ass? in his ear? his pee hole? Come on now, that shillage was thin.

So the second line could not have been any different in a real scenario

"I have been separated from the rest of the passengers and am in a cell" The fact that he waited to be separated from the rest of the passengers to get the message out is absolutely the way it would have been, before separation they would have been closely watching all the passengers and he did not risk losing his phone while under close scrutiny. Once in the cell, the cell prevents escape and would not have immediate supervision. THAT would be the time to dial out.

So the third line is exactly the way it would be, because Phil is a smart guy, he works for IBM in database security and knew when to try to reach the outside world.

"My name is Philip Wood. I think I have been drugged as well and cannot think clearly" That supports the story extremely well, American forces unilaterally drug all prisoners.

BOTTOM LINE? THE STORY WASHES. And NEVER FORGET what the shills did to this if you ever end up in trouble, if you ever try to call out you had better hope no one in a high position of power in America or Israel can benefit from shutting you up, because they will if they can.

Philip was probably just an average guy. He probably believes CNN and that arabs did 911. He probably thinks America is a beacon of freedom and truth, and really believed that if his message hit a blog somewhere it would go viral. He snapped a picture and sent it, knowing his Iphone would send his location. But that did not work, because everything he believed about American freedom, evil arabs, and everything else CNN pushes was a lie.

There will be no rescue for Philip wood, because the liars, hackers, shills and war department media made good and sure that will never happen despite the fact that he did get a message out. Phil will have his mind destroyed so he will never be able to speak up again, and be used to push a mop for the rest of his life if he is lucky.

And if phil managed to get a message out to anyone in his family, they would have been detained or killed instantly and kept silent, but that probably did not happen because all calls would have been censored. All log ins to any accounts he had blocked. The only hope for phil was an anonymous blog that did not require log in.

So if you ever find yourself in Phil's position, REMEMBER THE SHILLS, THE HACKERS, THE LIARS AND CHEATS, they will number in the thousands and will hatch any lie possible to screw public opinion against you no matter what message you get out, REMEMBER THEM, THEY WORK FOR A PAYCHECK AND THEY WILL NOT GIVE A DAMN ABOUT YOU.

Flight 370 really was hijacked by Awacs and flown to Diego Garcia, and there is plenty out there to prove it.

Malaysian airlines flight 377 has been provably hijacked by an AWACS plane. This is outlined in the updates below.

UPDATE:

The Malaysian military tracked this plane for a full hour with military radar after it "vanished from civilian radar because "the transponders were switched off" (B.S.) radar is radar, it does not need a "transponder" to track a plane and they can eat dog poo. And Awacs would have shut down any transponder for a plane kidnapping anyway, it took no terrorist to do it.

ANYWAY, the plane did a u-turn and was "last spotted" on the other side of Malaysia. They made the mistake of saying it was "flying low" when it was still at 29,500 feet, far higher than needed to show on radar, to deceive people into believing THAT is why it "vanished" from radar. A whole bunch of lies were hatched about how it disappeared from civilian radar because "the transponder was switched off" but RADAR IS RADAR AND ONLY COMMERCIAL AIRLINERS ARE REQUIRED TO HAVE TRANSPONDERS, PRIVATE PLANES ARE NOT REQUIRED TO HAVE TRANSPONDERS. Radar is there to prevent private planes that have no transponders from hitting commercial ones among other things, and if radar can see a private plane that has no transponder it certainly can see a huge jumbo jet. So you can take the transponder lies and trash them.

But the plane DID disappear from civilian radar even though military radar tracked it for a now admitted full hour longer.

What could make a plane disappear from civilian radar while at 36,000 feet yet still be visible on military radar? ONE THING, and it looks like a UFO (as some have speculated) only it's attached to a boeing jet - the antenna on a U.S. Air Force AWACS plane. The fact that this missing jet vanished from civilian radar yet remained visible on more robust military radars proves well enough for me that this indeed was an AWACS hijacking, just like we saw on 9/11 where AWACS planes were seen on video observing if not controlling the crashes into the twin towers. Once the plane flew far enough West, Awacs was obviously enough to jam both civilian and military radars, probably because they entered a zone where the angle of both incoming signals allowed for their simultaneous cancellation. That is where the plane finally "vanished" forever, an hour after the "official" vanishing act. The final vanish happened while at 29,500 feet.

Though AWACS was originally released as a radar platform there are many variants of awacs type planes now that serve many types of radio oriented missions including jamming and takeover, and they all have the same antenna dome.

In this scenario, we now have: The plane did a u-turn and flew the other way for a now admitted full hour UPDATE: FIVE hours. THAT supports the Awacs story.

Obvious fake photoshopping of "terrorists". THAT supports the Awacs story.

Cell phones still ringing, which would only be possible with a safe landing. THAT supports the Awacs story

Missing black boxes. THAT supports the Awacs story (the plane is obviously intact)

A reason to electronically hijack the airplane - 20 top people from a semiconductor firm that works defense, with employees working for countries that are not allies yet VERY powerful - THAT supports the Awacs story

And the GRAND FINALE: PLANE DISAPPEARS FROM CIVILIAN RADARS WHILE REMAINING VISIBLE ON MILITARY RADARS. THAT supports the Awacs story and pushes it to the forefront of logic like a tsunami on a beach umbrella, if THAT does not raise a few eyebrows people are sleeping.

And I'd have to say the CIA's obvious pushing of B.S. regarding this supports the Awacs story as well; If this plane shows up somewhere in pieces now, it was electronically hijacked by an AWACS plane - the same type seen on 9/11, and the people were offloaded and questioned (engineers probably waterboarded for defense secrets). IF that plane shows up in pieces now it happened last night, not three days ago FINAL ANSWER.

UPDATE: Exact logic sequence for proving the U.S. air force hijacked the Malaysian airlines flight.

1. Absent an awacs type system which can precisely monitor a received signal and spoof a return signal (or phase cancel it) you cannot disappear a non stealth aluminum skinned plane from ANY radar system. After vanishing from civilian radars, it remained on military radars that would work better against AWACS. That pretty much says it all.
2. Iran is an ally of Russia. Russia has Awacs type systems, but would not try to frame up Iran in a terror plot with a fake passport story supported by idiotically faked photos. Russia did not do this.
3. China and Malaysia also have Awacs type systems. Since it was a Malaysian plane flying with Chinese engineers, it is safe to rationalize out that neither China nor Malaysia did this.
4. Though the engineers on the plane also worked with stealth technologies such as Awacs, it takes a huge UFO shaped antenna to make such systems work, and Malaysian passenger jets do not have them as a standard feature. This was not a stunt played by Freescale Semiconductors.
5. Israel wants war with Iran, and the CIA hatching a terror plot with horribly faked photos stands in the evidence pool against the U.S. air force, which is their sex slave.
6. The obvious motive was military, and a real tie in was the fact that the plane disappeared from civilian radar while at full cruising altitude, but not the military radars. In this case the air force had to choose which radar they would spoof with Awacs (there is extreme difficulty with spoofing more than one system simultaneously unless there is a lucky alignment of signals) and they just hoped the military would not catch on. ONE PROBLEM, the Malaysian military was not as inept as the Air Force thought. PLAN FAILURE.
7. The Iranian terror plot fits the logic tree well. Since the photos were obviously faked, WHO WOULD DO THAT? WHO WANTS WAR WITH IRAN? No brainer there.

8. The cell phones are ringing, and the only organization in the world that can say where they are is the NSA. WHY THE SILENCE?

logic sequence output: Because the plane was hijacked electronically by those who keep the NSA funded and the NSA has been told to SHUT UP. If those phones were in lost baggage, the NSA would have said so RIGHT AWAY, and even the airline company would have figured it out by now, found the bags, heard the phones ringing and said, OH, WE KNOW WHY THEY RING. And the phones are not dead ringing as can happen with some american carriers, because on one occasion one of the phones was picked up and hung up without anything being said. But NOPE, NOTHING on this from the NSA, which means those phones are ringing on a runway somewhere, and the NSA knows EXACTLY WHERE. Yet they still support the CIA, which is doing it's best to hatch a B.S. terror plot about a couple Iranians with fake photos and THERE IS YOUR ANSWER, AMERICA HAS THAT PLANE AND IS PROBABLY WATERBOARDING THE FREESCALE ENGINEERS RIGHT NOW, EXTRACTING CHINESE MILITARY SECRETS. If the plane is now "found" in pieces it will mean "they" gave up on the B.S. story line and decided to ditch it somewhere rather than use it on the Petronas towers or the Sears tower.

The hijacking story won't work now that we know the Malaysian military was able to track the plane because a hijacker cannot switch off a radar system 500 miles away and cannot prevent the plane from being found on radar wherever it went to, ONLY AWACS COULD.

UPDATE:

The shills are panicking trying to prop up and support the "transponder" lie. Here is a response I posted to a shill that pretty much says it all:

I am not unaware of the situation with private aircraft. I have seen at least a dozen and NOT A SINGLE ONE had a transponder. Your claim that most private aircraft have transponders is a lie.

There was no "primary" or "secondary" radar. The transponder only identifies the craft that is being reflected on active radar.

I believe you told the most plausible lie people would ever believe, but you forgot something, I am former NSA and can call bullshit on practically anything.

You cannot tell me that the airport did not have primary active radar systems in Malaysia, we are not talking LaPaz Bolivia even, and even La Paz has active radar. Any city in America with a population over 50,000 will have an airport with active radar. You are implying that a 777 jet took off from an airstrip in an advanced country that was laid out on a dirt path intersecting goat trails and therefore had to transmit back to tell the airport where it was. What a load of B.S.

FOR THE RECORD: THE PLANE VANISHED FROM ACTIVE AIRPORT RADAR. THE FACT THAT THE TRANSPONDER SWITCHED OFF AT THE SAME TIME IT VANISHED FROM ACTIVE AIRPORT RADAR PROVES AWACS EVEN MORE, I KNOW YOU WOULD LIKE TO SAY THAT AWACS CAN'T JAM A TRANSPONDER BECAUSE YOU PROBABLY WORK DEFENSE YOURSELF BUT TRUTH BE TOLD, THAT OUTCOME IS AN OBVIOUS ONE and to the other skills, AWACS type planes have many functions and one of them is JAMMING EVERYTHING. AWACS planes have amazing signal jamming capabilities, this is so well established fact that you are going to have to still even Pakistani agricultural web sites to front the lie that AWACS is not used for jamming. Give up on that one, even goat herders are not that stupid.

Circumstances prove the Maldives sighting legit

Permalink

Here is the main argument against, and it's dirt simple to skewer.

The prevailing argument against the Maldives sighting is the fact that the Maldives are slightly off course for Diego Garcia. But there is an enormous hole in that argument -

The reason why the plane was taken over the Maldives is because Iran, Russia, India, and many other nations have warships occasionally frequent the Indian Ocean, and there are also many oil tankers and other shipping vessels. Flying over one of those would be far worse than flying over the Maldives, where people are simple, sparse and isolated from the rest of the world.

ALL COMMERCIAL AND ALL MILITARY SHIPS ARE EQUIPPED WITH RADAR. The radars are more limited than ground based radars, but the ships still have them.

On top of this, ships are going to be staffed with people more capable of making observations. The path flight 370 took would have been a tradeoff of distance and risk of being seen and recognized. So the Maldives was the obvious best choice of routes.

I see the Maldives route as absolute proof of a U.S. military hijacking of flight 370 for the forementioned reason, and another huge one, which is

-

Eyewitnesses said the plane was LOUD, and they were able to get out of their homes and see it before it was gone. There's a huge problem with that - to meet airport regulations, 777 aircraft, which are modern, are also very quiet. But fighter jets are extremely loud. They are not quiet because they go supersonic, and even at subsonic speeds, any airplane that can fly at supersonic speeds cannot be quiet.

Subsonic planes which can be quiet, such as the 777 use an airfoil shaped wing to stay aloft. An airfoil produces a negative pressure on the top of the wing, and the plane literally gets pulled into the sky by vacuum pressure built up on the top of the wing. But as soon as supersonic speeds are approached, an airfoil won't work because the vacuum pressure region moves towards the back of the wing, and at too high a speed the wing no longer generates lift and the plane will drop like a rock.

Supersonic planes use pressure on the bottom of the wing to generate lift, and if they also need to have performance, there is no way a plane of this design can ever be quiet. Rather than lift their way into the sky, they punch their way into the sky and the engines have to be very powerful and be revved hard for enough force to be generated to keep them aloft even at subsonic speeds. This along with size to performance considerations makes them very loud.

Even if flight 370 had been loud, it likely would have been there and gone before anyone got out of their house to see it. But if a cloaked fighter jet was in front of it as an escort, and a cloaked fighter jet was behind it, the people would have heard them and been out of their homes on time to see only what was not visibly cloaked - flight 370. And since flight 370 would have been the only thing visible to simple people, all noises would get blamed on it regardless of where they originated in the sky.

The extremely loud noise basically check mates the sighting, it's legit. Flight 370 was electronically hijacked and flown over the Maldives to avoid being sighted by whoever was out on the ocean and received escort from two or more visibly cloaked fighter jets.

THAT is my FINAL ANSWER with regard to the Maldives sighting.

April 26 2014

HAARP technology - When the Evil play GOD.

This update has replaced the original Haarp report.Permalink here.

I am well aware that Haarp proper has its limits, and cite the real source I believe is used in this report. Nowadays the word HAARP is like the word Kleenex.

If you are a fence sitter with regard to Chem trails and weather modification, that is understandable because "no one" has come up with "hard proof" that this is going on. But today ought to be the day that changes, because I have cold hard proof that HAARP technology is exactly what people say it is along with a precise technical explanation for how Haarp technology works and this will post today.

DO NOT MISS THE NASA REPORT, WHICH PROVES HAARP TECHNOLOGY DID KATRINA, which was part of the original post and is already linked in here.

Understanding the technical side of Haarp

It is a cold hard fact that even if the entire electrical grid output was used for weather modification, there would be insufficient power available to do much of anything. The distances are too wide, volumes too huge, and locations in relation to a transmitter seldom ideal. Yet weather modification is a reality. How? This article explains how it can be done, from a scientific perspective, and also provides direct evidence from Nasa that Haarp intensified hurricanes Katrina, Rita, and Emily.

Jim Stone, Freelance Journalist, Feb 5 2012

Most everyone has heard that silicon is a semiconductor. A semiconductor only permits current flow when the conditions are correct.

In a typical silicon semiconductor, it's current flow characteristics are determined by the addition of doping agents - these are mixed with the silicon and become part of it's molecular matrix during the manufacturing process. The two most common doping agents are arsenic and boron.

Doping agents cause the silicon to have an excess number of electrons in the P doped regions, and a deficiency of electrons in the N doped regions. A small electronic charge applied to the junction between the N and P regions will cause a cascade effect of a much greater magnitude if a power supply voltage is applied to one side of the piece of silicon, and a load is applied on the other side. That is what makes a transistor, the heart of a basic amplifier.

How HAARP works, and a possible real reason why there are "chem trails"

Most people do not realize this, but common air - the air we all breathe, is also a semiconductor, and it can be made to behave just like a piece of silicon if the right doping agents are added to it.

If you wish to modify the electrical characteristics of the atmosphere, you need to use an aircraft to disperse the doping agents at a high altitude. If you then take a pair of huge transmitters, such as haarp, and transmit a frequency to a specific region which is timed to phase cancel against the opposing transmitter the frequencies they transmit will vanish and leave a standing DC bias voltage in the atmosphere at the selected region.

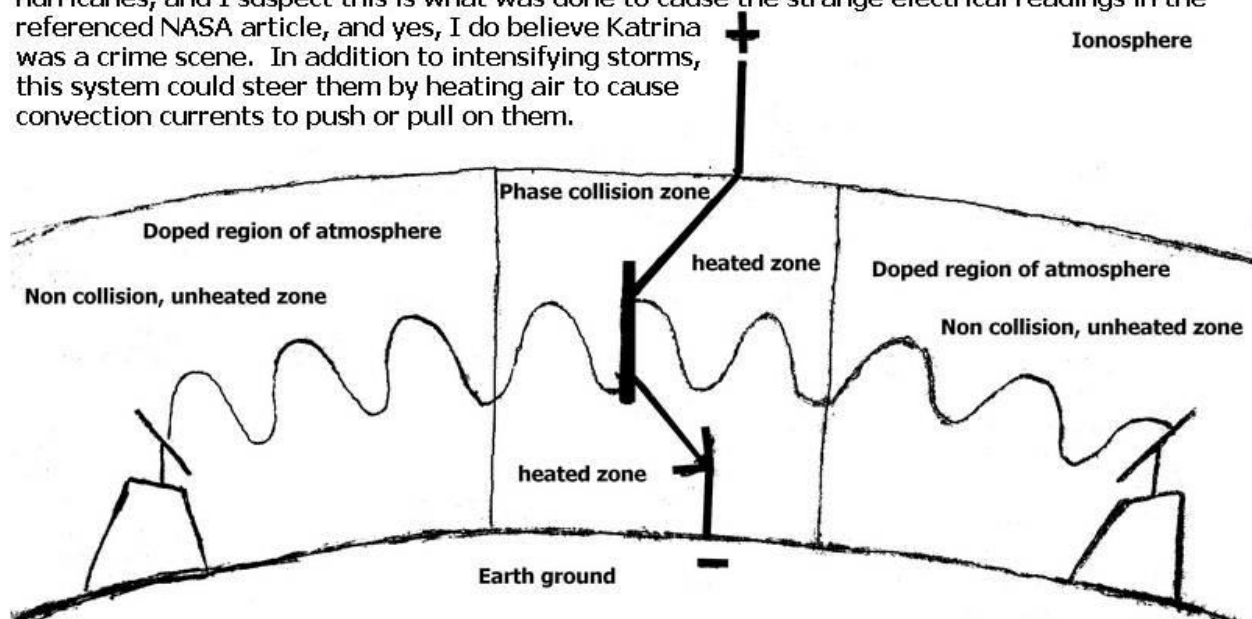

This voltage is the electrical equivalent of the electronic charge applied between the N and P regions of a silicon transistor. The chem trails are the doping agent, and the ionosphere is the power supply.

A flow of current is then triggered from the ionosphere to the earth below. Because the ionosphere has virtually endless power to give, it is possible to take a transmitter pair with a radiated power of only a couple of billion watts, and use it to trigger a cascade of trillions of watts. That is enough to heat the atmosphere, and trigger a change of climate, storms, ect. It is very important to make sure you do not exceed certain limits, or "clip" the atmosphere, or you will cause a lightning bolt of a sort not ever witnessed. But if kept below certain thresholds, a great amount of atmospheric heating can be caused and no one on the ground would ever notice a thing.

This of course would cause very odd electrical readings in the atmosphere. So someone should have been able to detect this, right? Nasa did. They noticed several hurricanes, including Katrina, were not electrically normal. These were the only 3 hurricanes to ever be that way. This could be done using the method illustrated below.

The following illustration is a drawing of how a Haarp type system could be set up to work.

The traditional "HAARP" type system would need a counterpart elsewhere in the same hemisphere of the globe. The signals could be directed and timed to phase cancel anywhere within reach of both signals. At the intersection point, they could be caused to drop a static bias electrical field into the atmosphere, which in the presense of a doping agent (chem trails) could trigger a cascade of electron flow from the ionosphere to the ground, thus heating the air in the electron path to trigger and intensify storms. This is a theoretical stab at a classified system by a knowledgeable engineer. Since this system is classified, this guess is probably the closest thing to the truth you will ever see. This would be effective for beefing up hurricanes, and I suspect this is what was done to cause the strange electrical readings in the referenced NASA article, and yes, I do believe Katrina was a crime scene. In addition to intensifying storms, this system could steer them by heating air to cause convection currents to push or pull on them.

Provided by Jimstonefreelance.com - distribute freely

Considering the precision modern weather modification systems have, giant installations such as HAARP can't be doing it all

Now onto WHY ON EARTH American cell towers have so much juice going to them.

What if thousands of cell towers with over 50,000 watts each were used rather than a pair of big Haarp arrays? Multiple signal source locations would allow the drawing of patterns, patterns which many people have noticed in weather radar

How much is 50,000 watts, compared to what is really needed for cell service?

In America, computer wifi is limited to 20 milliwatts transmit power and often even with that tiny amount you can connect from hundreds of feet away with no special antennas or hardware. Your cell phone can transmit 300 milliwatts. That's well over 10 times the power of wifi, and the range of your cell phone is that much better. All that is needed to make a great cellular node is a 10 watt transmitter (to make sure it gets real good penetration into the surrounding buildings,) and a receiver that is more sensitive than the one in your cell phone because you are talking back with a lot less than 10 watts.

10 watts is 500 times as strong as your wireless N router that comes in perfect everywhere. A lucky neighbor might snag your unsecured router with only 20 milliwatts of output from over a block away with just a cheap netbook. Why then, since 10 watts will clearly do the job, are there these ENORMOUS out in the open giant goose invading "cell towers" in America that are obviously capable of pumping many thousands of watts?

It's because the cell towers in America have a totally different purpose than stated. Sure, the tower does indeed accomplish the job of supporting cell phone service, but it is not needed at all for that purpose. They are there to hide something clandestine right in the great wide open.

A reader sent the following:

"My company also erected many cell towers, and I always wondered why they had us bring so much electrical power to these cell towers."

He NAILED IT. As a technical type, I paid attention to the cell towers, and noticed that they always seem to have a 400KVA or bigger transformer feeding them (I was never able to get close enough to look at the data plate but they were obviously way too large). 400KVA is approximately 400,000 watts. And I never really thought about it, why on earth they always got fed so much juice. Sometimes you just need to wake up and start thinking. Mexico confirms this - many cell towers are obviously low powered, with thin wires and tiny tower mounted amplifiers. A perfectly functional node can be fed less juice than needed by an average laptop and run on a small solar panel. These are common in Mexico.

Another comment came in stating that American cell towers in fact only get anywhere from twenty thousand to sixty thousand watts, complete with verified documentation that that is "all it is". Ok, Fine then. WLS AM radio in Chicago which is well known as the GIANT clear channel monster in America broadcasts through the night with 50,000 watts, and with a good radio you can hear it anywhere in the world when conditions are right. To sometimes pump even more than that into a single American neighborhood via the local tower which is serving only a two mile area is far beyond suspicious, It is case proven. Those cell towers ARE NOT WHAT WE HAVE BEEN TOLD and I am certain that even 60,000 watts would be a conservative estimate for many of them.

Why pump so many watts?

The antenna arrays on the cell towers are highly directional. That's obvious. So since the signal from them is confined to a zone, rather than going out omnidirectionally, whatever is in that zone will get extremely high R.F. levels. Maybe you need that much for mind control, but I seriously doubt it. With such an ability to confine the signal to within a zone, I would expect a mind control beam to not need more than a couple thousand watts. Where is the rest of that power going?

My guess, is Japan, Hurricane Katrina, or Chiapas Mexico. Whatever earthquake or disaster "they" need to accomplish a political objective. And there is something you need to know about radio wave propagation - it can be steered. So just because a cell tower appears to only be able place all it's RF output within a confined zone, it does not mean that signal cannot be diverted and sent elsewhere. This is because a neighboring cell tower can be synchronized in such a way that it steers the output from surrounding towers to a new remote area. And that is how modern Haarp technology works, BET ON IT.

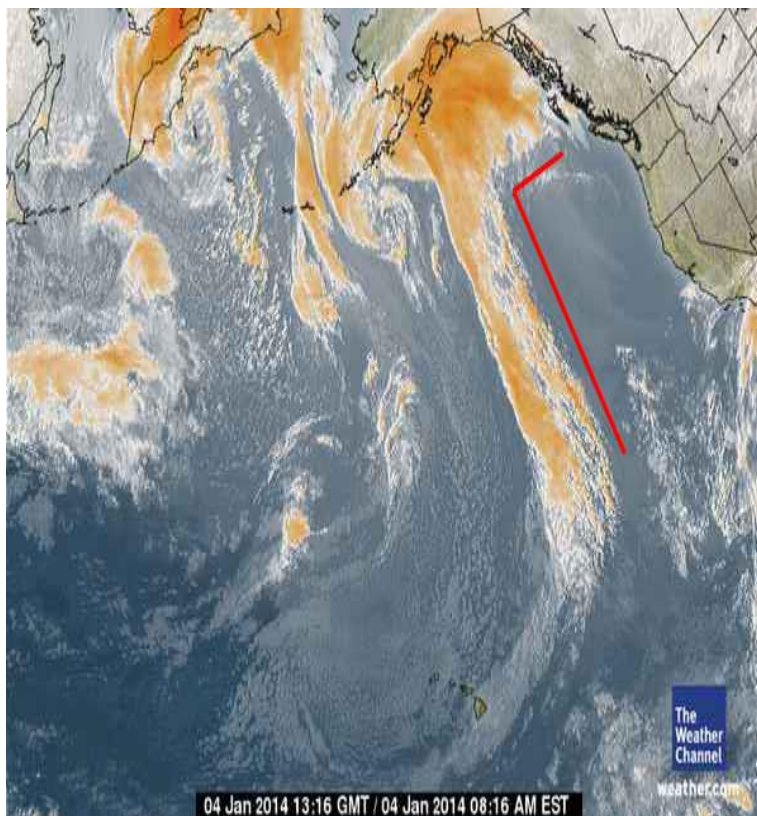

American cell towers then, I believe in this order, have multiple purposes. The first is EMF mind control. Ever wonder why on some mornings EVERYONE seems to be happy, and on others EVERYONE seems to be grouchy? People don't just naturally fall into a mold like that, yet you see it all the time. And you never used to. This is a new phenomenon. Back in the 70's and 80's moods were totally random. Not anymore. There are happy days when everyone is happy, and grouchy days and indifferent days. If you have not noticed this, start paying attention. People's lives are random, and there should be absolutely no reason for their moods to all be similar for any reason other than outside manipulation.

The second purpose is an occasional one - I believe that occasionally the towers will be switched up to full output to eat a nuclear reactor in Japan via a phony earthquake scenario, or to make good and sure a hurricane is useful for a social experiment in New Orleans. But you cannot have them humming away at full output all the time without it becoming obvious, so the ability is likely saved for special occasions. Furthermore, with as many as there are around, it probably does not take more than a few percent of them at any one time to pull off something big. And this is exactly why, as my reader also stated, "Later, the Army Corps of Engineers would install frequency amplifiers connected with HXXrp. I believe they can control the weather." Why, pray tell, would the Corps of Engineers show up and install something in a "civilian" cell tower? Think about that. We all know the "elite" can trigger earthquakes. We all know they can tweak the weather. The question is then, since there is no GIANT UFO in the sky doing it, where is their system located?

Geometric patterns prove it has to be the Cell towers doing it.

If you set up two transmitters, their phase collision zone will happen in a straight line. But as my reader from Brazil has stated, they had a perfectly square shaped drought area. And if you look at the pictures of the haarp caused drought in California, that pattern happened along two straight lines that formed an L. And then there are circles and other patterns people have reported, and this means that the effect is not being accomplished with two transmitters, it has to be using multiple transmitters creating multiple collision zones to start drawing shapes. THAT is where the cell towers come into play.

The more signal sources you have to create a zone, the more patterns and shapes you can make, with each transmitter pair in whatever Haarp grid you fire up being responsible for their own little area. Let's say your little grid uses a thousand cell towers in the Houston area - this would allow 500 different points, each getting at least 100,000 watts of bias current each, with a total of 50 million watts to trigger a bigger cascade from the ionosphere. This would be the reason for all the shapes people see, true, there are radar errors that can cause patterns to appear as many meteorologists will state but that won't cause a consistent drought causing L shaped high front off the coast of California to appear and stay put for months on end.

It is very easy to confirm that cell towers have cell service as a totally secondary purpose, just walk up to one and see how much power it is getting fed. If there is any more there than 100 watts for amplifiers, another 200 or so for lights and I'll give them another 500 to play with just in case there is something like a computer and monitor in a little building at the tower base, if there is more than that present something is seriously amiss. Having large liquid cooled transformers at every tower is a dead giveaway, the towers are NOT what we have been told they are.

I believe what we are witnessing now - the horrible tornados and floods, is also the result of weather modifications. I believe they want to bring untold disaster to this nation, to cause extreme trouble before ushering in an ID system, a new currency, and global governance.

Direct environmental effects can be observed when Haarp type systems are in use if you get lucky

Mysterious booms, powerful auroras, you can see and hear it all if there is a break in the clouds, or booms if they push the system too hard. This is the reason for all the mysterious booms people are hearing around the country now, google that if you have not heard about it. And the volcanic eruption to the left I believe was a threat against the nation of Japan. Such pictures are common now. But think back to when you were a kid. We had cameras and volcanoes then. Why did we never have pictures like this in National Geographic in the 60's 70's 80's and 90's? HMMMMM??? That's not special effects, that really happened and is obvious Haarp in action. To see more, like it CLICK HERE the elite are OBVIOUSLY now making MANY THREATS.

AND THEY CAN, because in the words of Defense secretary

William Cohen himself, dated all the way back to 1996, Cohen himself stated:

"Others are engaging even in an eco- type of terrorism whereby they can alter the climate, set off earthquakes, volcanoes remotely through the use of electromagnetic waves.

So there are plenty of ingenious minds out there that are at work finding ways in which they can wreak terror upon other nations. It's real, and that's the reason why we have to intensify our efforts, and that's why this is so important."

Cohen himself said this in a Pentagon press briefing in 1996. THAT means all this technology is real. Cell towers and Haarp emit radio waves, which are just another name for electromagnetic waves. WAKE UP PEOPLE, THERE IS NO ROOM FOR DOUBT - regardless of the systems used, this warfare is a reality and Cohen's statement proves it. If you have any friends who are doubters, show them this page. Don't send it via mail which will only be censored, show them directly on their own computers.

I have observed weather modification myself.

In Vancouver BC in the winter of 2007, I personally watched the sky during extremely odd weather at night, and through a hole in the clouds which occurred between violent downpours saw an aurora borealis stepping up and down in discrete steps as if being digitally switched between various intensities. I have spent plenty of time observing real auroras, and this one obviously had a synthetic origin. It was extremely bright, the brightest I have ever seen by far, and auroras do not just step up and down in intensity like that. They fade up and down. I even wondered why it was in such large steps, with modern technologies it would not need to be. Perhaps they don't care about how obvious it is, or perhaps they thought the clouds were solid enough to hide it.

I knew when I saw this, in concert with clouds that appeared to be formed along grid lines in symmetrical patterns that the weather in that particular case had to be man made.

As usual, if anyone can point out inaccuracies in this article, please e-mail me with recommended changes; Weather modification is so classified that details are sparse and you sometimes just have to guess. I hope I connected a few dots here.

RABIES SKY DROP

The T4 nanobot phage can be used for precisely what this writer speaks about, I'll take this as a nice freebie I don't have to write myself and post it. Thanks!

Jadin wrote

Recall that, over the past several years, the powers behind the mass media sporadically, yet methodically, floated sensational stories about what they repeatedly termed a "Zombie Apocalypse." Here you can see unfolding the plans of the social engineers and the media attitude shapers, with their gradual mass inculcation of the concept of, and even the terminology of, their planned "Zombie Apocalypse." Notice that, from time to time, they have popularized and publicized mass marches of people made up to look and act like zombies. They float these high visibility zombie mob stories with a tongue-in-cheek aura of humor. Recall that Glenn Beck floated one such story in TheBlaze.com about FEMA doing a zombie apocalypse drill. Imagine, a drill! Why? because it is designed to get people to think about the idea of shooting throngs of menacing zombies marching toward you.

This is such a grave issue, because they are deliberately working to create ghouls among the population so that police, military, and the undiseased citizenry will accept the idea of shooting Americans who have become ghouls. This is the way they divide and conquer the otherwise rebelliously outraged American population. Please watch the Alex Jones video clip, which I widely posted five years ago. They had not fully unleashed the pandemic at that time, so, naturally, the issue evaporated from public interest. YouTube took down my multi-part series by Alex Jones on Baxter and Bayer Pharmaceuticals' March 2009 deliberate attempt to infect the population with deadly bird flu, (Admin insert, this was a key component of my article Tainted nightmare) which they had bioengineered and were then beta testing to go from intransmissible by air to highly transmissible by air. I'll have to upload it soon and hope that they don't take it down again, because now there are reports of deadly viruses spreading in foreign countries. They have vowed to unleash plague upon the world, as Jesus prophesied. Several years ago, they did a beta test of several of their rabies-infected/drugged/hypnotized cannibalized subjects, setting one of them out in a homeless section of Miami. The cannibal was caught, and it was deliberately widely reported that he was eating the flesh of his victim.

We know that the rabies virus turns people into ghouls, which of course would horrify the citizenry when the elite decide to make the rabies virus go epidemic. That's why they're dropping rabies virus over Texas. What better way to make people shoot their fellow citizens in order to cause the citizenry to decimate itself, and thus to enable the diabolical power elite to dominate populations without opposition? Their intent is to so annihilate populations by war, plague, and famine -- all of which Jesus prophesied -- such that only a fraction of the world's population will survive to serve them, unable to revolt. This they have vowed in stone at the "Georgia Guidestones" -- to kill 12 out of every 13 people on the planet, and wind up with a population of only one-half billion. Just type "Georgia Guidestones" into the search window on YouTube.

Russian arms buildup, WORTH WATCHING

The page has been cut here to hopefully solve a problem with it crashing Ipad.
View more HERE

There have been Bitcoin problems. Do not send Bitcoin until further notice, thanks!1LXwQoVSw9MrDCV2G8ZGEbnewgUr9xXaB8

Uncensored magazine (ad below) is a great source of truth you won't find anywhere else, and I endorse them fully.

This web site is updated daily. If nothing new shows, hit refresh (it is the circle arrow in the URL window of every browser)

Every report on this web site is public domain and can be re-posted in full. Mirrors are permitted and appreciated. Just mention this web site by linking back to the original here.

Most hit articles

Fukushima Sabotage click here for updated PDF | Bat Man Shooting | Sandy Hook original coverage | Hastings Murdered | Antidepressants | Hurricane Sandy | Boston Bombing | Nuclear Blackmail | SHILLS | BUSTED! | Tainted Nightmare |

Less read articles I think should be read

Springfield bombing | Joe Stack | INTERCEPTED! | Swedish explosives | Chiapas Earthquake | Corevpro | Cells | Bacteriophages (IMPORTANT!) | Carhack! | Haarp | Jenin | Nuclear Rogue |

<http://www.jimstonefreelance.com/>